ARMY DEFEATS NAVY IN HARD-FOUGHT GAME

Today

No, No, Professor Dole, and Bread Line Eat Sugar!

By Arthur Brisbane

PROF. EINSTEIN urges the United States to prevent wars.

How should the United States prevent wars, which start in Europe, or elsewhere, outside of the United States?

Should we become mixed up in them, and again send ten billions of dollars, and three millions of men, as we did last time? No, thanks.

How could we prevent them? An Italian is arrested in France with plans of an important French naval base, and other plans for destroying that base with Italian airplanes.

A smaller spark than that has started a war. Could we prevent it?

A foolish old farmer hitched himself up in a yoke with a bull calf, and, as he went down hill, yelled: "Stop us, somebody." He should not have hitched himself up.

Europe should not go to war, and Prof. Einstein should not expect us to prevent the nations from fighting each other.

That is their business, not ours. He would not say: "I wish some American would prevent my fighting a friend in Poland."

Congressman Tilson says the McNary bill is the "dole" in disguise. For some reason, every professional "100 per cent American" seems to have a horror of the dole.

Is the dole so much worse than the bread line? Is it better to let a man stand in line two or three hours to get a miserable cup of coffee and a piece of bread than to give him and his family, without waste, and directly, enough to keep from starving—THAT IS, IF YOU REALLY WANT TO KEEP HIM FROM STARVING.

Why worry so much about the dole if you have conditions that demand it?

By the way, Senator Borah warns this government that, if it insists on boycotting Russia, and hampering trade with Russia, somebody else will get the trade that Russia, with decent treatment, would give to us. And if that happens, according to Senator Borah, we really shall have the dole. Wisely he advises developing, not restricting trade. The Soviet with its theories is no worse than the czars, with their KNOUT.

For your health's sake, remember the statement of an able doctor: "Sugar is the best muscle food." The heart is a muscle and if illness has weakened that muscle, see that you have plenty of sugar or of food or drink containing sugar.

If you are tired in the afternoon, a piece of chocolate, or a pure candy, or a drink well sweetened, will help to dispel fatigue and supply renewed vigor.

The man or woman past 50, according to the late Dr. Murphy, great Chicago surgeon, should find time in the middle of the day or early afternoon for a nap, however short. Ten or even five minutes will restore nervous energy and prolong life.

It was because he would not take his own advice, and moderate his ceaseless working, that Dr. Murphy died too young.

R. A. Carrington, Jr., publisher of the Oakland Post-Enquirer, active newspaper, would like you to know that Oakland doesn't propose to take any "depression" lying down. Yesterday, Mr. Adolph Zukor broke ground for a new three million dollar Oakland theater, which is part of the twenty million dollar building program now under way in Oakland, in Alameda County.

Capt. Ammel on Way Home; Flight Off

BOMB VICTIM GOT DEATH THREAT

Tells Police Blast at His Home Was Probably Work of an Enemy

Bombing of the home of Bernard Kravit at 244 Summit ave., in the exclusive Corey Hill district of Brookline, endangering 12 persons, was declared by the police today to be the act of an enemy of Kravit, who recently threatened him with death.

State experts determined that the infernal machine consisted chiefly of a stick of dynamite, a percussion cap and a fuse, the end of which was spliced and placed in a heap of powder, which was ignited by a photographer's flash-gun.

According to Inspector Thomas A. Thompson of the State police, who lives nearby and was ordered to the scene, Kravit told him of having received threats.

Later the wealthy real estate dealer, owner and occupant of the dynamited house, denied this to the Brookline police, but after persistent questioning by Sergt. James Tonra admitted it was probably the act of an enemy.

FAIL TO GET CLUES

"It was the work of an enemy—but I didn't know I had any," he said to the police sergeant.

Unable to obtain from him or others in the house any clues to the possible identity of the bomber, the police launched an investigation to discover who might wish to get revenge for some real or fancied wrong in connection with Kravit's real estate or other business affairs.

Dist.-Atty. Winfield Wilbar, of Norfolk County, began an inquiry by sending one of his assistants, Edward Dewing, to the scene. He was to join Dewing later in the day to make a personal investigation.

Wilbar was aroused over what he referred to as introduction of Chicago methods in his territory.

Coupled with this three-fold investigation of the State police, the Brookline authorities and the county prosecutor, Perlin L. Charter, an expert attached to the staff of the State chemist, began an analysis of the remains of the bomb.

BOMB PLACED AT DOOR

The bomb was placed on the threshold of a basement door, directly beneath a window of a room in which several men and women, including Mr. and Mrs. Kravit, were playing bridge.

They were knocked from their chairs to the floor. Several others in the house, including maids, were temporarily stunned, and the patients in three hospitals in the vicinity were terror-stricken.

The basement door was torn out and a gaping hole ripped in the concrete foundation of the house. Practically all the windows were shattered, as were all on one side of the house next door.

The explosion was heard three miles away, at Brookline police

Mrs. Bruce to Wing Across Continent

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce of England, who, in a tiny plane triumphed over the perils of Europe, and the deserts, jungles and unpeopled spaces of Asia in flying from London to Tokyo, who arrived here yesterday from Japan on a Japanese liner, today told of her plans for flying across the American continent. She said she would have her plane ready by the first of next week and would fly to Los Angeles, striking out across the continent from there.

SPANISH ARMY ROUTS REBELS

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Madrid said that several leaders of the Spanish revolt will be shot tomorrow.

Madrid, Dec. 13 (AP)—In a furious battle near the town of Ayerbe at dawn today federal troops took a hundred prisoners, seized rebel equipment and drove a revolting regiment of infantry back upon the garrison town of Jaca, where rebellion flared yesterday.

Gen. Berenguer, prime minister, asserted the engagement had terminated the revolt and that federal troops were in control of the Jaca area.

The prime minister made this announcement after a brief audience with King Alfonso. The loyal troops from Saragossa, he said, continued a march on Jaca after the battle.

OFFICERS CAPTURED

It was a nice bit of tactics which routed the rebels, the general said. Two strong units converged upon Ayerbe from different angles and caught the rebel forces of about a thousand men in a sort of nutcracker at the Ayerbe mountain pass. Gen. Jorge Fernandez Herdia was in command of the federals.

Eight rebel officers were among

SIX INJURED IN BUS CRASH

Rehoboth, Dec. 13 (AP)—Six persons were considerably bruised and battered today when a bus of the Union Street Railway Co. collided with a sedan on Fall River ave., causing damage to both machines. Saul A. Moquin, of 642 Pine st., Fall River, driver of the sedan, who was described by the state police to have been driving on the left, will be charged with operating so as to endanger public safety, police said.

Arthur J. Charrette of North Providence was the operator of the bus.

Miss A. C. Platt 25 Willard st., New Bedford; Mrs. J. H. Boyle, 135 Rounds st., New Bedford; Edward Boyle, her son; Ambrose Trudell, Harrisville; Tony Smith, Port Chester, N. Y.; Mary McGrath, Park pl., Brooklyn and Sadie Simon, 357 Bedford st., New Bedford.

N. Y. POLICE IN BATTLE WITH 1500 'REDS'

Fists and Clubs Used to Disperse Communist Marchers on French Consulate

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—About 1500 Communists bearing banners denouncing the French, British and American Governments tried to march past the French consulate today and were rushed by police, who used fists and clubs in an attempt to disperse them.

Police tore down the signs, which bore legends attacking alleged "imperialism" of the three governments.

TRAFFIC CLOGGED

The Reds congregated at Fifth ave. and 40th st. and attempted to proceed down East 40th st., where the consulate is situated. They were driven back to Fifth ave., where thousands of onlookers gathered and traffic was clogged.

Several fights between Reds and bystanders developed as the police continued their attempts to scatter the crowd.

The disturbance grew into a riot as police charged again and again and succeeded only in driving the Reds from one side of Fifth ave. to another. The riot squad was called but was powerless, for the time at least, to disperse the crowd.

MANY ARE SEIZED

Curious throngs surged to the neighborhood from all sides in increasing numbers and i na few moments police found it difficult to distinguish Communists in the crowd. Whenever a group picked up a tattered banner or broke into the strains of the "Internationale" police were upon them, swinging clubs.

Several arrests were made.

Fair Weather and Cool for Week-End

With the temperature 10 degrees cooler at 9 a. m. today than yesterday the official forecaster promised a fair, cool week-end. He said moderate northwest winds would prevail today and Sunday. At 9 a. m. the temperature was 25.

Snow flurries were reported from northern Vermont and the Great Lakes region, but no storm that would effect New England appeared on the weather map.

This Is News! Theory Bites Einstein

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The boat was tied up at the wharf for 24 hours before the professor validated it with mathematical certainty.

That's the relativity theory. If the boat ain't moving and it's up against a wharf there must be land near.

If Columbus had known this ratio he might have discovered America twice as often.

When reporters asked the professor personal questions all he did was laugh merrily.

If the football field is 100 yards long he doesn't see why 22 men

Capt. Bowstrom of the Navy won the toss and chose to kick off. Kilday took the kick-off and returned it 15 yards to Army's 30-yard line. Kilday plunged two yards off tackle but Frentzel was stopped after gaining a yard on a reverse.

Stecker punted to Kirn, who was forced out of bounds on Navy's 27-yard line. Officials detected holding on Navy's part, however, and the ball was brought back, giving Army a first down on its 45-yard line as a result of the 15-yard penalty.

Stecker ripped off five yards on a spinner and then plunged through for four more.

Kilday made it first down on Navy's 43-yard line and the Middies took time out.

Kilday whirled three yards on a spinner and then broke off his left tackle for another three-yard gain. The Cadets were hitting sharply and Stecker tore off tackle to Navy's 31-yard line for another first down.

CADETS TRY AIR

The Soldiers tried the air, but Stecker's first long heave down the middle was incomplete.

Stecker found a hole off right tackle and reached the 25-yard line. Stecker hit the same hole again and it was first down on Navy's 20-yard line. Gannon was at left halfback for the Navy, having been chosen to start instead of Hurley. Navy braced and Stecker in two plunges along the side lines gained barely four yards.

A short pass, Stecker to Frentzel, was completed but netted only 1 yard. Stecker then threw a long pass into the end zone, but it was too high and bounced off the clutching fingers of Carlmark.

Navy put the ball in play on its 20-yard line after the touchback and on the first play, a bad pass from center rolled back to within a yard of the Middies' goal line where Byng recovered for the Navy in a desperate melee.

Bowstrom's punt from behind his own goal was caught by Wen Bowman, Army's quarterback, who was run out of bounds on Navy's 36-yard line. The Navy forwards stopped Bowman for short gains on two end sweeps but the Army quarterback then took a short pass from Stecker and raced to Navy's 14-yard line for a 16-yard gain.

SAILORS TAKE BALL

Stecker went over the side line but was tackled in his tracks by Hagberg, Navy back, as the latter broke through the interference.

Fourth down with eight yards to go, Stecker tried another long pass as Bowman raced over the Navy goal, but it was knocked down. Again the Sailors put the ball in play on their own 20-yard line.

Johnny Gannon sliced six yards in two plays but Bowstrom then punted to Army's 32-yard line, where the ball was allowed to roll

Color, Notables, Thrills Mark Service Battle for Relief of Unemployed

Yankee Stadium, New York, Dec. 13—Before today's game it was figured the gate receipts would exceed $600,000. The American League park was not filled to its capacity of 80,000, but there were few vacant patches in the colorful throng that crowded into the stadium.

* * *

As the Cadets marched to the stadium a weazened nanny goat grazing on a vacant Bronx lot tagged after them and would not be shooed away. Finally an officer gave her a meaning whack and exclaimed: "Beat it, we've got the Navy's goat now!"

* * *

A roar of applause went up from the stands at 12:15 p. m. when the West Point Cadets, 1200 of them, in their long gray uniforms and led by a band, swung onto the field. They executed numerous intricate formations and the spectators seemed to get quite a "bang" out of it. Over on the Army side sat one huge section of Army men in khaki, major-generals, colonels and whatnot, and their presence accentuated the military tinge to the proceedings. After the Cadets had done their stuff, they raced amid cheering to a large section of the stands that had been reserved for them.

* * *

And then the Navy band, resplendent in blue and gold uniforms and white caps, came on followed by 1400 marching midshipmen in their long navy blue coats and jaunty white caps. They, too, executed formations and the applause was deafening. It was quite a show.

Over $600,000 Realized for Aid of the Jobless in Charity Game

Yankee Stadium, New York, Dec. 13—A sturdy Army football team brought its season to a close today with the anticipated victory over a fighting, courageous Navy eleven that contested every foot of ground throughout the game.

The post-season game was played for the Salvation Army.

It was a struggle between two hard-scrapping defensive machines for most of the first half after Navy had successfully repulsed two early scoring threats by the Army.

The first Cadet charge was thrown back on the 14-yard line. The second bogged down on the Navy's 12-yard line, as passes hurled by Ray Stecker were grounded behind the goal line each time.

Navy was in a desperate hole at this stage as a bad pass from center was recovered for a 19-yard loss on the Middies' one-yard line, but Capt. "Blimp" Bowstrom punted out of danger from behind his own goal line.

The Sailors displayed less attacking power in this half and did not threaten to score, penetrating Army territory only once.

Neither team was able to make much progress in the third quarter and the period ended with the score still tied. In the fourth period the Army pushed over a touchdown, but failed in the try for the point after.

Before a brilliant assemblage of upward of 70,000 spectators, who paid the record price of approximately $600,000 to see the show, the Army and Navy, bitter athletic rivals since 1890, staged the most gorgeous football pageant of the year this afternoon for the benefit of the unemployed.

Clear, cold sunshiny weather greeted the big crowd which began pouring into the stadium long before the game started. It was a colorful and distinguished throng, including a galaxy of Cabinet officers, Army and Navy chiefs, Park ave. debutantes and figures prominent in the social and official life of the city, State and nation.

MANY NOTABLES PRESENT

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and party were out there in one of the boxes flanking the field. Across the gridiron, on the Navy side, sat the secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams and party.

HOOVER-SENATE TRUCE IMPERILLED BY LA FOLLETTE RESOLUTION

G.O.P. HEADS READY TO ATTACK

New Clash to Come Next Week; House Backs Presidential Program

Washington, Dec. 13 (INS)—A temporary truce prevailed today between President Hoover and Republican leaders of the Senate, who are embittered and deeply resentful over the public dressing down Mr. Hoover handed them Tuesday.

Mr. Hoover refrained from issuing any further statement criticizing Congress for the manner in which it has dealt with his recommendations on economic legislation, although reports filled the capital that one was in the making. And for their part, the Republican leaders rest on their ultimatum to the White House that the President need expect no defense from Democratic attacks if he continues to issue such statements as Tuesday's without consulting them.

The truce, however, is believed only temporary.

NEW CLASH BREWS

In all liklihood, the warfare between the President and the Republican leadership, by far the most dramatic and significant political development in months, will flare forth again next week when the Senate considers the La Follette resolution.

There is political dynamite in the La Follette resolution. It was introduced a few hours after Mr. Hoover issued his statement that Congress was "playing politics with human misery" and seeking to "raid the treasury" and it has been held off the floor ever since only by the almost superhuman efforts of administration leaders.

Consideration of it, however, is only a question of time and there will be some savage debate over it. The resolution says:

"Whereas, millions of American citizens are in destitute circumstances due to unemployment and face privation and suffering, and

"Whereas, the President of the United States, in a public statement, has indicated that consideration for the interests of income taxpayers necessitates restriction on governmental relief measures necessary to aid the jobless and their dependents, now therefore,

"Be it resolved, that it is the sense of the Senate of the United States that the relief of human suffering in this emergency would take precedence over the consideration of the interests of wealthy income taxpayers."

PUTS SENATE IN FLIGHT

Mr. Hoover's friends feel that this resolution is aimed directly at him in a personal way, and they are determined to beat it. Yet they admit the resolution is framed in such a way that a good many senators will hesitate to vote against it.

"Look at the language of it," said one Republican regular, rather ruefully. "If we vote against it we are put in the position of considering the 'interests of wealthy income taxpayers' above 'human suffering.' I'd like to vote against it, but if I do I am open to that sort of attack."

The important point is, however, that once its consideration is begun it opens the floodgates to a fresh and spectacular torrent of oratory which can only accentuate and emphasize the magnitude of the Senate revolt against the White House.

HOUSE WITH HOOVER.

Republican leaders of the House today had decided to take a firm stand with President Hoover in a half-dozen legislative quarrels now in the making.

Reconciliation between the White House and the Senate is now regarded as impossible during the balance of the short session. The House and the presidential veto power thus become the only weapons against a legislative program expected to be adopted by the Senate.

Speaker Longworth expects Congress to recess for the Christmas holidays, December 23, and stay recessed to January 5.

Notre Dame Victory Wins Woman Divorce

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—An echo of the enthusiasm that attended the Notre Dame-Southern California football game last year was heard in a Chicago courtroom yesterday when Mrs. Bella Ogden was awarded a divorce from John Wesley Ogden, wealthy descendant of a pioneer Chicago family.

Mrs. Ogden declared Ogden was rooting for Southern California, while she was for Notre Dame. The Californians lost and Ogden struck her, she said, in the eye.

2 HELD AS ALIEN SMUGGLERS

Charged with attempting to smuggle nine Chinese and a Spaniard into the United States, two members of the crew of the United Fruit steamer Mayari were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Jenney in federal court today.

The men, Joseph Leal of Cuba and Antonio Martinez of Spain, were remanded to the East Cambridge jail in lieu of temporary bail, set at $2500. They will be given a further hearing Thursday.

Representatives of the U. S. Attorney's office asked Commissioner Jenney to hold the men under heavy bail, in view of the fact it is thought other members of the Mayari may be implicated.

The 10 stowaways were discovered in the hatch of the steamer when it docked at the Revere Sugar Refinery wharf yesterday.

CONCORD SHOPS OPEN SUNDAY

Concord, N. H., Dec. 13—While rival camps on the enforcement of the Sunday blue laws in this city are signing petitions and girding themselves for "a showdown" on a strict enforcement of the law, the police authorities stated yesterday that they expect "business as usual" on the coming Sabbath.

At police headquarters it was stated that no orders have yet been issued to proceed against any of the numerous drug stores, newsdealers, garages and filling stations which ordinarily keep open on Sunday.

Proprietors of garages and service stations in the city have appealed to Mayor Robert W. Brown to prevent the enforcement of the "absurd and ancient" statutes.

McLeod Boomed for Postal Head Here

Colin J. McLeod, who resigned as agent in charge of the internal revenue service in Boston last January after eight years in that position, is being boomed for postmaster of Boston. McLeod's candidacy, it was learned today, is receiving favorable consideration from the retiring senior senator, Frederick H. Gillett of Springfield.

Gillett Has $94,363 Fund and Cannot Find Use for It

Springfield, Dec. 13 (AP)—United States Senator Gillett has asked Probate Court to instruct him as to the disposition of a fund of $94,363 set up 75 years ago to establish an agricultural department in Westfield Academy.

Stephen Harrison, of Westfield left a bequest of $5000 in 1855 for this purpose. The academy was established about 1793, but it ceased to function about 10 years after Mr. Harrison made his bequest. No agricultural department was ever established, but in the interval the $5000 has multiplied almost 20 times.

STEEG IS FACING TROUBLE WITH CABINET

Two Under Secretaries Say They Will Quit, but One Changes His Mind

Paris, Dec. 13 (AP)—Theodore Steeg, the new French premier, today ran into his first misadventure as the head of the government which he formed with such great difficulty.

It did not seem of paramount importance in itself, but it was regarded as a forerunner of the difficulties he is expected to encounter when he presents his cabinet to the Chamber of Deputies next week.

It took the form of the withdrawal of two undersecretaries just as he reached the Elysee Palace to present the new cabinet to the President. One of them changed his mind under pressure from cabinet members and decided to stick by the Premier.

He is Leon Barety, under-secretary of finance. With Etienne Riche, under-secretary of air, he informed Steeg earlier in the day that he would be unable to stay in the cabinet. Riche stood by that decision when Barety yielded to persuasion.

As he left the Elysee Palace the new Premier issued his first formal statement of policy to the effect that his cabinet's program would be dedicated to the service of "impartial justice," and to be "maintenance of peace through security and the pursuit of economic activity by means of social progress."

SPANISH ARMY ROUTS REBELS

the captives. They are to be court martialed immediately.

From the general's account of the battle it appeared the rebels fled before superior forces across the rough, snow-bound country, leaving munitions and equipment behind.

"The forces which left Saragossa," said the premier, "joined a detachment from Huesca and fell upon the rebels. There were many casualties and the artillery and motor trucks of the rebellious faction fell into the hands of the loyal troops."

PLANES DROP WARNING

He also disclosed that airplanes flew over the rebel lines showering pamphlets promising immunity to all who would surrender and heavy punishment for those who did not.

In Madrid the threat of court-martial for the rebel leaders was interpreted as an indication they would be executed. If so, it would be the first time in 50 years that a Spanish army officer had been executed for open rebellion.

So far as could be learned in the face of demoralized communications, the mutiny had not spread beyond the province of Huesca. The mutineers, censored information indicated, had only such arms and equipment as could be seized in the Jaca garrison.

COMMUNICATION CUT.

There were unverified reports the uprisings had extended to Saragossa, where Maj. Ramon Franco, the aviator, was said to be at the head of the movement, but virtually all telephone and telegraph communication with that area was cut off.

There also were rumors the rebels were holding six federal officers as hostages, threatening summary execution if loyal troops moved into battle. The report was that these captures had been made during the night while the rebels marched from Jaca to Ayerbe.

54 Police in Honor Guard at Funeral

Funeral services for Frederick W. Bartlett, 33, patrolman at Station 19, Mattapan, who died Wednesday in City Hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile, were conducted today in St. Ambrose Church, Fields Corner. Interment was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Patrolman Bartlett's body was taken from the home, 233 Park st., Dorchester, under an escort of 54 patrolmen in charge of Capt. Louis E. Lutz and Lieut. Thomas Kavanaugh, and 75 members of the Boston post of the American Legion, commanded by Benjamin Poole. Requiem high mass was said by Rev. Oscar O'Gorman, assisted by Rev. William Gross, deacon, and Rev. John J. Morrissey, sub-deacon.

Bankbook Returns, Cashier Missing

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Susuan Warrington, 26, of Montgomery st., South End, deepened today when the Cornhill Lunch received its bank passbook in the mail. Miss Warrington was a cashier at the lunchroom and left there yesterday with the pasbook and $80, for deposit in the bank. She mysteriously disappeared enroute, although the bank is but a few blocks from the lunchroom. The pasbook was mailed in Roslindale, according to the police.

HOME BOMBED IN BROOKLINE

headquarters, at fire headquarters and by scores of residents, including Inspector Thompson, who lives at 115 Westbourne terrace, and who was dressing to go out and investigate when he received a telephone call directing him to the scene.

JUST A LAST WARNING

Thompson expressed the opinion that the bomb was not intended to kill, but was perhaps "a last warning"—a threat intended to make the owner of the house realize that the person who had sent the previous threats "meant business."

In the opinion of Charter, the state expert, the bomb was made by an amateur. If this is so, it was possible that the maker thought it would cause general destruction and death, the police pointed out.

Moreover, if the dynamite had been exploded inside the house instead of against the basement door, it would have blown out the walls and caused death or serious injury.

Kravit is associated in real estate business with two brothers, George and Joseph, under the title of the Kravit Trust, Glenville ave., Allston.

Those playing bridge included, besides Mr. and Mrs. Kravit, their daughter, Susan, and three other women. These were Mrs. Eva Finn of Newton Center, Mrs. Ruth Boardman of St. Paul ter., Brookline, and Mrs. Rose Kravit, a daughter-in-law. John Campana, a relative, had just left the game to go to bed in an upstairs room.

THROWN FROM BEDS

When the explosion came Campana was thrown from his bed and stunned. Two maids, sleeping in their basement quarters, were also hurled from their beds. They are Mrs. Clara Muhlen and Miss Alice Muhlen. The bridge players were thrown from the chairs and furniture was overturned.

The house at 248 Summit ave. is owned by David C. Davidoff. Davidoff, his wife and their two-year-old son, Robert, were asleep when the blast occurred. They were uninjured, although the boy's crib was almost sprayed with fragments of glass. A large piece of the window pane was imbedded in the opposite wall of the bedroom.

The Corey Hill, Brooks and Bosworth hospitals, all in the immediate vicinity of the house, were rocked by the blast and many patients were aroused. Many became excited and hysterical and nurses were kept busy allaying the fears of their charges.

KAUFMAN SUITE IS SEALED BY COURT ORDER

Action Is Taken on Petition of Mother to Save Assets of Missing Man

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Wilson of Suffolk County, acting on a decree of Norfolk Probate Court to conserve the assets and personal property of Mitchell B. Kaufman, Boston rubber magnate, missing more than five weeks, has sealed the missing man's suite at the Hotel Braemore.

The closing of the suite resulted from a petition filed by his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Kaufman, of Brookline, seeking the appointment of receivers of Kaufman's estate. Wilson said the suite contained only household furnishings and personal property.

PLANT STAFF REDUCED

At the same time officials of the Converse Rubber Co., in Malden, of which Kaufman is president, admitted there had been a lay-off of between 200 and 300 employes. They denied Kaufman's disappearance resulted in the lay-off, which they insist is only temporary.

Meanwhile the woods near Jackman, Me., where the missing man mysteriously dropped from sight while on a hunting trip, were blanketed in snow and today's planned re-enactment of the day of Kaufman's disappearance was indefinitely postponed.

Although Jim Murtha, in charge of searching operations, said late yesterday that he search was practically at an end until the spring, a few men went into the woods to continue the hunt. Their search, however, was fruitless.

Alford Rudnick, representing the Kaufman family at Jackman, said the hunt would continue for some time in spite of the weather handicap.

BOSTON HUNT IN VAIN

If Kaufman's body is in the woods, many believe it will not be found before spring. Trappers, working in the woods during the winter, are planning to keep a sharp lookout for traces of the missing man, urged on by the $10,000 reward offered.

In Boston last night police of the Back Bay station received a telephone tip that a man, bearing a marked resemblance to Kaufman, was in a hotel in that district. Extensive search throughout the hotel and the vicinity proved fruitless although the hunt continued until an early hour today.

LAMONT IS HELD FOR BAD CHECK

James S. Lamont, former president of the defunct brokerage concern of C. F. Redmond & Co., was arraigned in Newton District Court today, charged with larceny of $20 by means of a worthless check.

The complainant was Ralph Regan of the Checker Taxi Co. Lamont was not required to enter a plea, and the case was continued to Dec. 17.

Regan testified that besides giving him the $20 check, which was on the First National Bank of Boston, Lamont also gave him a check for $4 as a tip. There was no complaint, however, with reference to the latter, although Regan said it also came back marked no funds.

In connection with the crash of G. F. Redmond & Co. several years ago, Lamont was sentenced to 18 months in the County jail at Plymouth after he pleaded guilty to conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy. George F. Redmond got 10 years at Atlanta.

have to slug each other to prove it.

Professor Einstein actually talked so people could understand him.

He must be weakening.

His next stop will be Hollywood. That's done it.

Two teams haven't met in several years.

Well, we would rather have our football players strangers than friends.

Might as well tell you why two teams severed athletic contacts.

You can play football at Annapolis, graduate and still play again at West Point.

It has been done. Our authority is old Navy players who starred at Annapolis in 1894.

This statement may start another one of those intercollegiate scrimmages between two guys who never went to school.

The Army and Navy actually hate one another. Even in war it is the same as football.

The Navy took them over.

But the Army's got the backs.

So you may not see a football game this afternoon. It never gets that mild.

But you will see the finest elimination tournament you ever refereed. The boys don't go in there to doddle and to diet.

They go in to fight. From tackle to tackle it is no well-bred line.

All we know is that it will be the pippiest kind of a convention of industrial chiropractics.

And also this contest is the most popular policy of the administration.

We like to see Army and Navy play if it's only to wonder why the boys study algebra, Greek and trigonometry.

And there will be thousands of beautiful girls there. Which is nice because both the Army and Navy are huddle-conscious.

Movie Actress Weds Son of Flour Magnate

Dolores Salazar

Miss Salazar announced her engagement to Holmes last spring, after she obtained $17,000 damages from Ferdinand Pinney (affinity) Earle, artist now living in Paris, for alleged breach of pre-nuptial agreement. The engagement was denied by both Mrs. Payton Holmes and her son, the bridegroom, who was attending the University of Minnesota. Later the actress also denied it.

"Sunshine Girl" Sent by Roosevelt to Resort

Juanita Cawthon, 19, whom infantile paralysis has kept in beds and wheel chairs for two years, goes to Warm Springs, Ga., where a health foundation has been asked by Governor Roosevelt of New York to do its best to cure her.

Juanita Cawthon

A foundation physician came to see her yesterday and told her that she has a good chance to walk again.

Police Chief Will Lee promised that if other funds were not forthcoming he and his men will supplement the free medical care given by the foundation.

Dolores Costello Will Return to the Screen

Dolores Costello

Sinclair Lewis Makes Hit With Sweden

Stockholm, Dec. 13 (AP)—Sinclair Lewis' frank discussion of American literati while formally accepting the Nobel prize for literature carved a wider niche for himself in Swedish hearts, if newspaper reaction this morning is an indication.

Sinclair Lewis

Lewis' most striking characteristic to Swedish newspapermen, according to Tidningen, was "his moral courage and admitted analysing capacity. Continuing, the paper remarks:

"It is more than pleasant to see a lecturer be himself and forget himself; to see him forget the whole world for the sake of his theme; to forget all about his necktie and how badly ironed his trousers were."

The papers refer to Lewis as a "Jolly old chap saying spiritualities in a dressing gown as a lecturer, and he was just as jolly in a morning coat."

RASKOB AND BRIDE TO LIVE IN TWO ROOMS AT NO. CHELMSFORD

Tiny Home Where Scion of Millions and Bride Will Take Up Married Life When Honeymoon Is Over

VALUABLE as an antique and still capable of producing music is the graphophone of an early vintage in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stopherd in North Chelmsford, where John J. Raskob, Jr., and his bride will take up residence.

MRS. EMMA STOPHERD, who has taken good care of young Raskob while he has been working in North Chelmsford, will continue to play mother to the heir of millions and his bride when they return from their honeymoon. Mrs. Stopherd will teach the new Mrs. Raskob the culinary secrets at this old-fashioned stove, where she is shown stirring up a dainty dessert.

MINERVA TO DO HER OWN COOKING

Heir to Millions, Now Only a Working Man, Can't Afford Big Home Yet

Not to a million dollar palace, not to a luxurious modern apartment, not to an appointed hotel suite, nor a love nest in a bungalow, but to a modest two rooms in a typical New England small town dwelling, will John J. Raskob, Jr., take his bride on their return from their honeymoon.

For in two rooms in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stopherd, in North Chelmsford, the former Miss Minerva Aaronson, comely stenographer, who left her desk to become the bride of one of America's most eligible bachelors, will learn the fundamentals of housekeeping.

CAN'T AFFORD SHOW

There will be no show of wealth because John J. Raskob, Jr., although his father is one of the wealthiest men in the world, cannot afford it—he's just one of the help down at the Bast Fibre, Inc., plant, which, by the way, is within walking distance of the Stopherd homestead.

Thus, will the couple embark on the sea of matrimony.

Over the old-fashioned kitchen range, Mrs. John J. Raskob, Jr., under the kindly tutelage of the motherly Mrs. Stopherd, will learn to bake apple pies and cook roast beef—her husband's favorite dishes.

SHE'LL COOK, TOO

In spick and span pantry will she learn how to prepare fruit and vegetable salads.

For Mrs. John J. Raskob, Jr., according to Mrs. Stopherd, is to be the model wife.

One enters the Stopherd home through a rear entrance which leads to the spotless kitchen.

In the dining room one finds an old-fashioned dining room table, which can be enlarged by the insertion of leaves on festival days. Then there is the antique phonograph, the like of which today are few, and the radio, by the side of which young Raskob spent most of his evenings during his stay in North Chelmsford the last three months.

NO TELEPHONE THERE

There is no telephone. John, according to Mrs. Stopherd, used to walk to the drug store to call his Minerva during the days of his courtship.

Although North Chelmsford eagerly awaits the return of its most famous residents, Mr. and Mrs. Stopherd are not excited.

Since the day, some 12 weeks ago, when young Raskob hired a room in their home, they have learned to know and love the son of the Democratic leader.

Not only that. They have learned to love him as one of their own. But let Mrs. Stopherd, who has cooked for him, darned for him, waited on him, called him in time for work, who perhaps, next to his mother knows him better than even Minerva, tell her story.

TELLS OF CEREMONY

"He is a lovely boy," said Mrs. Stopherd in an accent retaining a tinge of Scotland. "It was only two nights ago that he came to Albert and me and told us about the wedding. He asked us to attend the ceremony. It was delightful. Minerva was not a bit nervous. She smiled from the time of her arrival here at 9 a. m. until Father Curtin performed the marriage."

At this juncture, Mr. Stopherd was asked if he kissed the bride.

"You bet I did," he answered.

"Leave it to you," interrupted Mrs. Stopherd.

And it is with two such persons that Mr. and Mrs. John Raskob, Jr., will reside, at least, in the early days of their married life.

75 INJURED IN INDIA RIOT

Bombay, Dec. 13 (AP)—Police wielding their lathis on stubborn crowds of Indian Nationalists today sent 75 persons to hospitals, 20 of them being detained for treatment.

The Nationalists congregated in front of an opera house, and the police repeatedly charged them before dispersing the gathering.

For hours the Nationalists had been marching through the streets bearing the body of a man run down and fatally injured by a motor lorry carrying foreign cloth. The crowds had attempted to obstruct the passage of the lorry.

DEATHS LOWEST IN NEWBEDFORD

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The United States Department of Commerce today reported that New Bedford, Mass., had a death rate of 5.3 per 100,000 population from automobile accidents in the city in the year ending November 29, 1930. This was the lowest rate of 78 large cities.

For total deaths in the city regardless of where the accidents occurred, Kansas City, Mo., had the lowest rate, 9.0, with Somerville, Mass., with 9.7, a close second.

The rates for other large New England cities for deaths from accidents within the city itself were: Boston, 14.2; Cambridge, 17.6; Fall River, 9.6; Lowell, 13.0; Lynn, 13.7; Providence, 15.2; Somerville, 9.7; Springfield, 18.0; Worcester, 15.8.

Lowell Concern in Wood Plant Merger

Portland, Me., Dec. 13 (AP)—Merger of four New England wood manufacturing concerns into the Colonial Containers Corporation, was announced today by George L. Crosman, president of the G. A. Crosman & Son Co., one of the companies.

Other concerns in the merger are: Horatio Hickock Co., Burlington, Vt.; Otis, Allen Co., Lowell, Mass., and Wing & Angel Co., Bangor. Crosman said the concern would use approximately 50,000,000 feet of lumber annually.

Officials of the Otis, Allen Co. said there are 100 men employed in their plant now, and no changes are contemplated.

West Springfield Bank May Be Merged

Springfield, Dec. 13 (AP)—The doors of the West Springfield Trust Co., closed Thursday after a run that followed the suicide of its treasurer, J. Malcolm Warren, were opened today to admit persons who wished to consult the state banking officials now in charge, concerning their funds in the bank.

Officials of the Third National Bank & Trust Co., this city, today continued investigation of the trust company resources, but declined to admit any overtures had been made toward amalgamation of the two banks.

West Berlin Safe Looted by Bandits

West Berlin, Dec. 14—The safe of the J. Cushing Grain Company was blown open by burglars today and $300 in cash and negotiable checks stolen. Edward J. McCarthy of the Worcester state police has begun an investigation.

Providence, Dec. 13 (AP)—Charles E. Gay, well known among New England manufacturers, died here today after a short illness. He was in his 65th year. Mr. Gay, representative of a French concern, traveled throughout New England and New York. He formerly lived in Worcester and Brooklyn, being affiliated with Masonic organizations in the latter city.

Case Lays Plan for Governors' Parley

Providence, Dec. 13 (AP)—Gov. Norman S. Case of Rhode Island, chairman of the executive committee of the nation-wide governors' conference, today called a meeting to be held at Hotel Lafayette, Washington, D. C., next Wednesday to fix the time and place of the 1931 conference.

Navy Bell, Silent 9 Years, to Ring if Middies Win

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 13 (AP)—Silent for nine years, the Japanese bell on the Naval Academy grounds here may sound tomorrow. It all depends on the outcome of today's charity game with the Army at New York.

The bell hangs under a small roof in the center of the academy grounds, and for years it has been used for but one purpose—to inform the world that the Navy has been victorious in the service match.

The last time it was sounded was in 1921 when the Middies won 7 to 0.

There is no clapper, but an iron bar has been found highly effective. The bell was presented to Commodore M. C. Perry by the regent of the Lew Chew Islands, and after his death it was given to the academy in compliance with wishes.

Hindenburg Declines Air Parley Invitation

Berlin, Dec. 13 (INS)—President von Hindenburg today refused an offer of honorary membership in the International Air Safety Conference with headquarters at Paris, because of the total air disarmament imposed upon Germany, and the fact he is still included in the list of "war criminals."

CUBA ROUNDING UP AGITATORS

Havana, Dec. 13 (AP)—The government is making numerous arrests of agitators whom it believes responsible for the recent disturbances which provoked the island-wide suspension of constitutional guarantees.

The censorship was lifted this morning.

Dozens of warrants have been secured against leading nationalist figures and other persons prominent in the anti-administration movement here. A hurried exodus to the United States by many persons whose names are on the list for arrest and trial has been noted during the last two days. Others have been unable to leave.

Those arrested include some newspaper men accused of exaggerating and falsifying reports on disorders. Juan Maza y Artola, former congressman and professor at the National University, is among those taken into custody by order of the Department of Interior.

Slayer Sentenced to Prison for Life

Providence, Dec. 13 (AP)—Langdon Stringer, 21, was sentenced today in Superior Court to life imprisonment for the stabbing to death of William W. Jones, also a negro, during an argument on May 31. Stringer was found guilty of first degree murder by a jury last week and Judge Charles A. Walsh said the verdict made a life sentence mandatory.

Noted Hunter and Wife Found Dead

Umtali, Southern Rhodesia, Dec. 13 (AP)—Dr. R. L. Magoon, noted American big game hunter, and his wife, Audrey, were found dead in their bedroom today. Police were working on the theory that Dr. Magoon attacked his wife with some heavy instrument and then killed himself.

Youths Trying to Steal Auto Held

Warren, Dec. 13 (AP)—Harry Rothschild and Robert Mulkern, both 18, and both giving Portland, Me., adresses, were arrested here today charged with attempting to steal an automobile. Arraigned in East Brookfield Court they were bound over to the grand jury in bonds of $2000 each.

Suffern, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—Fred Gannon, 53, chief of police of the village of Hillburn and employed as an electrician, was killed today in 35 foot fall from a crane.

Nevada Gold Strike Causes Rush to Desert Field

Reno, Nev., Dec. 13 (AP)—Word of a gold strike spread over the deserts of Nevada today and grizzled miners, their lives spent in searching for the precious metal, waited eagerly for news that might start a stampede.

From the Rabbit Hole mining district in the northwestern part of the State, just on the edge of the great Black Rock desert, came the first word of a new strike. Two brothers, Charles and James Scossa, had made the strike after a year of prospecting the district.

The two brothers arrived in Lovelock, a town of 1200 population, on the overland route of the Southern Pacific Railroad, with 12 sacks of the ore. It assayed $5 per pound. Three prize sacks, known as "picture rock," showed a value of $46,276 a ton. Based on these figures, the brothers had already acquired a small fortune.

Dozens of residents of Lovelock, it was said, had started for Rabbit Hole, 45 miles away, to stake out claims. In Reno and other towns throughout the state, news of the strike was eagerly sought.

Should the reports received yesterday be supported by further news, there is little question that hundreds of miners and prospectors will flock to the district.

Colonel Marion Davies Presides at Veterans Pageant to Aid Jobless

Charming Star of Screen and Governor-Elect Rolph Lead Grand March

San Francisco, Dec. 13 (US)—Serving in peace as well as in war, San Francisco veterans last night launched a smashing attack against the unemployment situation.

It was a peaceful offensive, but a successful one.

There was the rhythm of a huge dance orchestra instead of the rattle of gunfire, the shuffle of dancing feet instead of the tread of marching men, as thousands of San Fanciscans crowded the civic auditorium and helped the veterans roll up a big profit for relief of the unfortunate unemployed.

COLORFUL SPECTACLE

Every veteran organization in the city co-operated. Theaters, night clubs and fraternal and civic organizations contributed their share toward making the pageant and ball one of the most colorful spectacles in many years.

And presiding as hostess over the affair, giving graciously once more to the cause that she has generously supported since the World War, was Miss Marion Davies, the charming screen star.

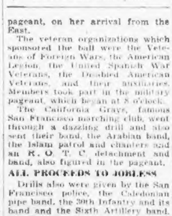
Proud of her honorary title, as colonel of the 26th Infantry, given her because of her work for veterans' welfare, Miss Davies set her other duties aside to accept the invitation of the veterans' committee.

Hurrying here from New York she arrived yesterday morning. Last night, with high officials of the Army, Navy and city, she sat in the reviewing stands with Governor-elect James Rolph, Jr., and watched the pageant and later, with the governor-elect as a partner, she led the grand march that opened the ball.

GIVES $1,000 TO FUND

The throng that applauded the actress at the auditorium last night knew only that she was giving her time.

In the unemployment fund of the Associated Veterans' groups, however there was still another contribution—Miss Davies' check for $1,000 which she handed Myron B. Goldsmith, general chairman of the pageant, on her arrival from the East.



MISS MARION DAVIES, star of the films, hostess at San Francisco veterans' ball to aid jobless, gave her check for $1000 to aid their fund.

The veteran organizations which sponsored the ball were the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Disabled American Veterans, and their auxiliaries. Members took part in the military pageant, which began at 8 o'clock.

The California Grays, famous San Francisco marching club, went through a dazzling drill and also sent their band, the Arabian band, the Islam patrol and chanters and an R. O. T. C. detachment and band, also figured in the pageant.

ALL PROCEEDS TO JOBLESS

Drills also were given by the San Francisco police, the Caledonian pipe band, the 30th Infantry and its band and the Sixth Artillery band. The Zane Irwin post of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars were among the other groups which helped furnish

Drops Work in New York and Rushes to San Francisco to Aid Charity Fund

Music for the dancing was provided by one of the largest dance orchestras ever to appear in San Francisco. The personnel was recruited from theaters, cafes and night clubs, which also sent entertainers to enliven the intermission between the dances.

All proceeds of the ball, it was announced by Goldsmith and Harold Boyd, chairman of the floor committee, will be devoted to the relief of unemployment. Although it was not possible to ascertain the exact amount reasized last night, the two veteran leaders declared they were confident that the sum would be large enough to lift the shadow of misery and suffering from hundreds of jobless men and women.

Earlier in the day the screen star was the guest of honor at an intimate luncheon in the Hotel Mark Hopkins.

It was here that the city's thanks were expressed—in brief speeches, and through a program of music and entertainment provided by artists from Miss Davies' own world of the theater. But while the gathering was a happy one, there was a background of seriousness as well.

RESPONDS TO WELCOME

Miss Davies herself, responding to a welcome by Governor-elect James Rolph, Jr., stressed the fact that the unemployment crisis is a grave one. She said:

"The cause for which we are all working today is a great cause.

"I am very happy to be associated with it in my small way.

"There really should be no unemployed veterans. Every citizen who has employment to of[illegible] should offer it first to the m[illegible] who have made such great sacrifices for our country.

"Any citizen who cannot offer employment should offer aid, and offer it as freely as these men offered their lives for us."

Republican Club to Hear Lecture on Spain

By NANCY BREWSTER

The possibility of industrializing Spain will be discussed for the members of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts next Tuesday afternoon when Dr. Charles C. Batchelder outlines the present political situation in that country, in his lecture, "King or Republican in Spain."

The program, presented by the activities department of the club, Mrs. Alexander Lincoln, director, will begin at 2:30. Dr. Batchelder will discuss the possibility of a democracy for Spain, commenting on the present government of the country.

Republican women have a full week ahead of them for on Wednesday, Mrs. Larz Anderson will be dinner guest and speaker at a meeting arranged by Mrs. Frederick E. Judd, political director. The meeting will open at 6:30 after which Mrs. Anderson will read from her recent book, "A Yacht in Mediterranean Seas," illustrating several passages with stereopticon slides. Mrs. M. H. Gulesian, who wrote the music for Mrs. Anderson's "The Little Mermaid," will present parts of the operetta as the musical entertainment of the evening. Members of the cast will appear in costume.

Mrs. Andrew J. George, who recently returned from a trip to Denmark where she was able to study the country at first hand, will lecture on "Denmark, A Co-Operative Commonwealth," before the club next Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, as one of the regular Thursday morning political lectures sponsored by the political department of the club.

Mrs. Lincoln announces a special Christmas program for the children and young friends of members of the club for next Saturday at 2:30 when a juvenile moving picture will be shown.

Tercentenary Aspect to N.E. Women's Club Monday Social Hour

A program of Tercentenary aspect will be offered members of the New England Women's Club at the next meeting, Monday, by the literature committee, of which Mrs. Addington Bruce is the chairman. "Some Characteristics of American Literature During Three Periods" will be presented. For the first period, 1620-1730, the century of immigration, Mrs. Frank Ober will make interesting contributions; for the second, 1730-1830, the century of independence, Mrs. Herbert Mank will reveal fascinating facts; and for the third period, the period of growth, 1830-1930, Mrs. Marcus V. Little will hold the lecture platform.

A social hour will follow, for which Mrs. Albert J. McKnight, Miss Eliza H. Paine and Mrs. Frederick Ellerbrook are the hostesses.

West Medford Club to Entertain Local Children at Party

The children of West Medford will be the guests of the Woman's Club next Monday when Miss Mae Kelley, cartoonist, will draw many sketches for their fancy and approval. Some of the sketches will be of the children in the audience, others, animated cartoons of varied descriptions.

The West Medford Woman's Club will have a Santa Claus in person for the youngsters with the distribution of toys and goodies the added attraction on the program.

Women's City Club to Hear Miss Homer in Steinert Hall

Friends and members of the Women's City Club who anticipated attending the performance of Frances Homer, dramatist, monologuist and author, Monday night are asked to note the change of hall. Miss Homer will be presented in Steinert Hall, and not, as originally announced, the Women's Republican Club.

Miss Homer will be seen in a program of original sketches.

Jewish Council Women to Sponsor Music Day Program

The Boston Section, National Council of Jewish Women, will sponsor a Music Day celebration next Monday at the Temple Israel meeting house at 2 p. m. An original musical production conceived by the music committee of the council will be offered under the title, "Notes From the Romantic Past."

Mrs. Julian Rogers wrote the book and Mrs. B. Feinberg coached the vehicle. Council members who will participate in the musical play include Mrs. Mae Belle Friedman, Mrs. Lillian Kornfeld, Mrs. Ruth Fishel, Mrs. Dorothy Feinberg, Mrs. Mae Morse, Mrs. Esther Oettinger, Mrs. Betty Rogers, Mrs. Henrietta Guterman, Mrs. Selma Zeltzer, Mrs. Helen Fishel, Mrs. Miriam Rogers, Mrs. Carolyn Lewis, Mrs. Viola Pinanski, Mrs. Lillian Winer and Mrs. Sylvia Webber.

Hostess for the afternoon will be Mrs. Abraham L. Fishel.

St. Vincent's Orphan Guild to Hold Card Party on Tuesday

The regular weekly bridge and whist sponsored by St. Vincent's Orphan Guild takes place Monday at the home, 45 Guyette rd., No. Cambridge, with Mrs. Walter E. Cushing of West Somerville as hostess. Mrs. Joseph Eichorn, guild president, announces the Tuesday bridge, also, which will be held at the guild headquarters.

Next Friday, the board of directors will hold a card party with Miss Katherine Crimin and Mrs. Dennis F. Desmond as hostesses.

Old Ironsides to Be Ready in June

Washington, Dec. 13—The work of restoring the celebrated frigate Constitution will be completed next June, Rear Admiral George H. Rock, the navy's chief constructor, reported to Secretary Adams yesterday.

He explained the work remaining consisted primarily of interior joiner work, manufacture of cordage for standing and running rigging, design and manufacture of boats, guns and gun carriages, the installation ground tackle, fresh water tanks, canvas work and the fitting out of storerooms, magazines and other spaces below the berth deck. He said $626,761.46 of the $645,880.30 available for the work had been spent.

Everett Mayor's Wife Seriously Ill

The wife of Mayor Michael C. O'Neill of Everett is in a critical condition in Chelsea Memorial Hospital, following a second operation, within the past 15 days, which was performed yesterday.

According to hospital authorities, Mrs. O'Neill was operated upon yesterday for an abcess of her appendix. Mayor O'Neill has cancelled all engagements until his wife's condition changes.

Memorial Service for Taft Is Held

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Memorial services for the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft and for the late Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford were held this morning by the bar of the United States Supreme Court. George W. Wickersham, who was attorney-general under President Taft, presided. Eulogies were delivered by a number of prominent attorneys.

$10,000 Is Donated for Calendar Reform

Geneva, Dec. 13 (INS)—An anonymous donation of $10,000 for the aid and study of the proposed reformation of the calendar was received today by the League of Nations.

Although the donor was not definitely known, it was believed here that George Eastman, America's [illegible]aire, made the contribution.

Glories of Other Years Ire Students

Erlangen, Germany, Dec. 13 (AP)—The students of today resent too much harping on the glories of another year. Stench bombs, whistling and cat calls last night stopped the showing of "Oh, the Good Old Student Days" at a movie theatre in this university town, near Nuremberg.

Dark Fur Trimmings on Light Coats

By ANN ARDEN

MODEL from EDW. F. KAKAS & SONS, INC.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WLEX.

THE FUR coats, this year, have a slightly fitted princess feeling—a new width, although there is no extra fullness below and no circular flare—never cut dead straight. The flat, supple furs handled like fabrics are the smartest, looking as though they were made by dressmakers of beautiful yard material. No matter what the occasion they should be slim and sleek.

* * *

* * *

THE TOWN coat usually covers the day dress, tho' it does not matter if the afternoon dress shows a bit below it, and a few coats are knee length, which is definitely smart. They are seldom belted but are deeply and diagonally wrapped and held about one in a Cossack swirl. Some have tricky sleeves that come in tight at the cuff, but the least tiresome sleeve is the straight and simple one, or the loose wide one. The self-trimmed coat is the best. The collars are less voluminous and stand off slightly or roll for framing the face.

* * *

* * *

THE CRAVAT scarf is an excellent choice for the season, especially in flat fur. Satin-like furs make smart bows or turn down in the manner of a stock. Sometimes such a scarf is worn with one and crossed over the other and caught by means of a jeweled clip. One very clever cloth dress is finished with a soft fur scarf that is tucked into the surplice closing of the woolen frock.

* * *

A CHIC TOUCH that a smart junior or a college girl would appreciate is the notched lapel collar of flat fur on a tailored coat. Almost needless to say, there is a diminutive cap of the same flat fur to be worn with the clever coat.

Public Invited to Boston Y. M. C. A. Christmas Service

The public is invited to attend a service of music and pageantry in the auditorium at 140 Clarendon st., sponsored by the Boston Young Women's Christian Association tomorrow at 4:30.

Living pictures of beauty will be shown, portraying among other scenes the Wise Men, the Shepherds and the Holy Family. Miss Betty Blake, instructor in dramatics at the Lee School, has directed.

Participating in the tableaux will be Madelyn Cobham, Mary Jane Vicary, Alison Watt, Elizabeth Tinkham, Gertrude Pinard, Persis Holmes, Boston; Lavinie Anthony, Arlington; Georgia A. Cormey, Belmont; Martha Mallon, East Braintree; Jerry Collins, Woburn; Louise Johansen, Somerville; Ethel M. MacLean, Medford; Ramah Hubbard, Boylston; Muriel Pearce, Newton Center.

The Glee Club, accompanied by Mrs. Mina del Castillo, music chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will present a program.

Nahant Women to Hear Forestry Secretary Lecture

The Nahant Women's Club will have Charles Bailey, secretary of state forestry, as their speaker at the next club meeting, Tuesday, Dec. 16, at the Maolis club house at 3 o'clock. His talk has been substituted for the "drama day" program which was originally scheduled for this date, but has been postponed until March.

Mrs. Olaf Olsson and Mrs. Arthur W. Knight are hostesses for the day. Mrs. Ida M. Daniels will preside. Announcement is made of the club meeting Jan. 6 when "The Story of Sugar" will be told in word and picture.

Ladies' Unity Club to Conduct Charity Bridge and Whist

A holiday bridge to aid the Home for Aged People, Bartlett st., Roxbury, which institution the Ladies Unity Club supports and maintains, is scheduled for Friday, December 19, at 2 p. m., with Mrs. E. P. Dodge as chairman, according to the announcement of the chairman of the ways and means committee, Mrs. Frank Rogers.

A candy and food table will be directed by Mrs. William D. King. Other sources of revenue have been planned in the interest of the club's only philanthropy.

BRUINS BOOST FUND TOTAL OVER $10,000

Over the $10,000 mark went the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American today.

The sharp upward trend in Goodfellow dollars was caused by the magnificent donation by the members of the Boston Bruins hockey team and its manager, Art Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross and their two sons contributed $250 after they had agreed to go without Christmas presents. Then the 13 members of the squad donated $100 apiece making a grand total of $1550 from the Bruins' den.

TIGERS HELP FUND

Four members of the Boston Tigers' hockey team thereupon stepped into line with $50 contributions, each marking the close of the 12th day before baskets are delivered.

Twelve more days to Christmas and pitiful letters continued to pile on the desk of the Basket Fund editor. Letters asking food for children whose lives are measured by days of hunger.

Widowed mothers of small children write of their futile struggles to find work that they may feed and clothe the young ones properly. Some ask for only enough food to make Christmas brighter than the other days. Many ask only for warm clothing and fuel to heat one room of their tenement homes.

MANY TO BE AIDED

There are hundreds of cases that should be cared for long before Christmas. They do not look for gifts. They are asking only for the bare necessities of life.

The Christmas Basket Fund is desirous of giving help to all deserving cases brought to the attention of the editor. You can help the Basket Fund to reach every applicant by sending a donation today. Only 12 days remain. HELP THEM TODAY.

ALL WILL BE FED, HOOVER SAYS

Washington, Dec. 14—Every person in the United States who is out of work will be fed and clothed through the winter, President Hoover has announced.

He made this statement after conferences with the heads of the unemployment commissions of New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cincinnati and Kansas City, and with Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the board of the American Red Cross.

It will not be necessary to appeal to any charity, the President said. In every city in which there has been any appeal it has gone over the top.

The American Red Cross has $5,000,000 in its national fund which has never been called upon because the local chapters are taking care of their own, the President stated.

Difficulty over apropriations in Congress, he said, would not interfere with the general program to take care of those who are out of work and out of food.

Welsh Coal Miners Accept Wage Truce

Cardiff, Wales, Dec. 13 (AP)—A three months' truce with coal field owners was accepted in principle by miners at a special delegate conference here today. This decision, it was explained, means that the miners in the South Wales area favor giving the industry an opportunity to place in effect its reorganization scheme. The truce was accepted by the miners with the provision that no reduction in wages would be involved.

Depositors in Closed Bank to Get Cash

New York, Dec. 13 (US)—Plans for relief of depositors of the Bank of United States had progressed today to a point where it was indicated that 50 per cent advance on deposits will be available early next week, either Monday or Tuesday. These funds, mounting into many millions of dollars, will be provided by the member banks of the Clearing House, representing the 23 largest banking institutions of the city.

Light-Keeper Found Frozen After Fall

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 13 (AP)—The light tender Murray Stewart brought to Sault Ste. Marie yesterday the body of John Moore, 62, assistant light keeper at Otter Head. Moore was stunned by a fall downstairs in the lighthouse December 1. Six hours later his body was found frozen stiff by 30-below zero weather.

Shoots at Gasoline Thieves, But Misses

Three rifle shots were fired early today at three gasoline thieves by Benjamin Langille, proprietor of a filling station and repair shop at Lawrence and Phipps sts., Charlestown. Langille lives near the filling station, and was aroused by the men tampering with the gasoline pump. He fired from his bedroom window, but the thieves escaped.

Time Nebulae Going 8000 Miles a Second

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 13 (AP)—Nebulae traveling 8000 miles a second have been clocked by a new high speed lens, astronomers of Mt. Wilson Solar Observatory revealed today. Heretofore speeds of only 2400 miles a second have been recorded.

BASKET FUND SHOW TICKETS GOING FAST

The greatest advance ticket sale for any benefit performance ever staged in Boston!

That's the report from Keith-Boston Theater, where the big midnight show will be staged, December 15, in aid of the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American.

There are two outstanding reasons for the record sale. First, the finest array of theatrical celebrities ever gathered together at one Boston playhouse comprize the program. And, second, every dollar taken in at the box office will be turned over to the Christmas Basket Fund for the purchase of food and clothing for needy familes.

MANY STAGE STARS

Only one dollar to see more than a score of famed artists, including Katharine Cornell, now appearing at the Wilbur Theater in "Dishonored Lady"; Florence Reed, star of "Purity" at the Plymouth Theater, and Queenie Smith, who has made "The Street Singer" the talk of the town.

Miss Smith and Archie Leach, who plays opposite her at the Shubert Theater, will provide an added treat with their "Hunky Dory" scene, which has proven such a hit with Boston audiences.

And then there will be Harry K. Morton, Nick Long, Jane Love and Betty Hannon, also of "The Street Singer," on the program. And a dozen or so of the RKO headliners, including Bobby Folson; Hum and Strum of radio fame; Tyler Mason, blackface comedian; Burns and Allen; the Maclone Sisters; and Don Humbert, "The Whispering Serenader."

NIGHT CLUB ORCHESTRA

From the Majestic Theater will come Frank Marino and Sadie Banks, stars of "Street Scene;" and from all the leading night clubs will come bands and floor shows Jacques Renard and Arthur Brown, master of ceremonies, from the Mayfair; Mickey Alpert, the pretty Reynolds Sisters, and Rose and Ray Lyte from Cocoanut Grove; Fess Williams from Hollywood Inn, and Frank Machada.

The program, arranged by H. Jay Rice, manager of the Keith-Boston Theater, will open promptly at 11:45 Monday night. Al Duffy, representing the Shubert theaters will present Katharine Cornell, Florence Reed and Queenie Smith. Then Jimmie Gallagher will serve as master of ceremonies and will be succeeded half-way down the bill by Arthur Brown.

Tickets are on sale at both Keith theaters. The time to buy is getting shorter and it's going to be a full house. GET YOUR TICKETS TODAY.

N. Y. Movies to Put Silencer on Subways

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—It's worth $5000 to Father Knickerbocker to find out why his subways make so much noise. The board of estimate has approved a contract with the Electrical Research Products Co. for a survey. Acoustic experts will study nonclicking turnstiles, sound-deadening material and tube walls and special roadbed compositions.

Law Bans London Sunday Ring Bouts

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—Sunday boxing, extremely popular in Londod, did a canvas dive before the blue law of 1781 today. After hearing deputations from the Board of Boxing Control and the Imperial Alliance for Defense of Sunday, a London council committee declined to license rings for bouts on Sundays, Christmas or Good Friday.

3 'Cry Baby' Bandits, 19-22, Die in Chair

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—Three "cry baby bandits," youths who shed tears profusely during their trial, were executed last night in Sing Sing prison for the slaying of a Long Island druggist. James Bolger, 19, James Butler, 20 and Italio Ferdinandi, 22, died in the electric chair after Gov. Roosevelt refused to commute their sentences.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

I wish to call your attention to a card from the collecting department of the city of Boston.

On the card tax payers are notified unless they pay their taxes promptly, that their homes will be placed on sale for taxes.

In my experience, this is the first time that the city of Boston is taking steps of that nature at this time of the year. His honor the mayor is urging the public to spend money in the stores and to find work around the homes to employ labor. That of course, is in perfect order, particularly this year, but for the tax collector to use harsh means to collect real estate taxes at this time is very unwise, because the tax payers are wholly unprepared on this sudden call of the city, and those who have planned to spend some money in the store, or in repairs on their house will have to abandon their plans.

In fact, I know of one case where interior decorators were engaged to do some work on the house, and when this notice was received, the work was cancelled. I cannot understand the logic of this situation.

Most communities around Boston give real estate owners a year or more time to pay their taxes. The city of Boston has also in the past given the owners a year's time. Surely the city loses nothing by it as she charges a very high rate of interest and is able to obtain money at a much lower rate of interest than charged the tax payer.

Therefore, considering the hard times that we are having at the present, and where the Federal, State and city governments are trying to give the people a lifting hand, this action on the part of the city collector is surely unwise.

Employe Lauds "L" Policy to Aid Jobless

Editor Boston American:

It seems to me the Boston Elevated is following the Evening American's policy in the unemployment situation, and giving employes as much work as can be done.

Out of the car windows you will notice a long row of elevated wire poles painted silver white and the subway and tunnel entrances, walls and ceilings have been scrubbed and washed.

Good service has been the rule, and if patrons would co-operate with the management—refrain from using their autos to and from work—it would certainly help the employes from being laid off in the future.

AN ELEVATED MAN.

Boston Can Well Answer "Why I Am an American"

Editor Boston American:

I am very glad to notice in your letter column that you are about to have people answer the question, "Why I am American?"

This is very important for there are so many hazy ideas about America even among the natives that it is well to know why some people think they are what they claim to be.

This would bring out many features of being an American citizen. Of course times have changed since the law was passed in this State that no one could be an American citizen unless he went to church.

We ought to be cognizant of the meaning of living in Greater Boston. The first public school was established in Boston in 1635. The first newspaper published in this country was in Boston. It was the Boston News Letter, 1704. The first printing press in America was in Cambridge in 1639. George Washington's headquarters was first established in Cambridge. Get a lot of historical facts of the past on America and it will help you to be proud that you are an American.

MYRON M. HILLS.

Favors Probe of Restaurant Prices

Editor Boston American:

I would like to get the opinion of your readers upon a matter of vital interest to me and other patrons of restaurants in Boston.

I am referring to the prices we have to pay for meals. we hear on every side now-a-days how cheap everything is: how the cost of living is going down.

We know provisions are much cheaper, such as eggs, butter, milk, flour, and all kinds of vegetables, and still in restaurants you pay ten cents for one egg, 20 cents for two eggs and so on: ten cents for a small order of any vegetable; ten cents for a cup of tea, and some places ten cents for a cup of coffee.

Why is it, that they are allowed to charge so much, when they are getting their food so cheap? If that is not profiteering, I would like to know what you call it.

I read in your valuable paper recently where the Department of Justice at Washington has instituted an investigation into the price of bread.

I think that same department would do well to investigate into the prices restaurants charge for "eats." People who room out and are obliged to take all their meals in restaurants are the ones who suffer during this period of unemployment and something should be done about this profiteering on the real necessities of life. I would like to hear the opinions of some of the readers of this paper on this subject.

College Men Called Musical Low-Brows

Editor Boston American:

Are college men low-brows in music? According to a music teacher's address in Boston, they are. What college men and women are acquainted with Liszt, Chopin, Wagner and other great composers?

Their tastes run along the lines of "Sweet Adeline," "Here's to Good Old Yale, Drink Her Down," "Down Among the Dead Men," "Old Black Joe," etc.

Cigarettes for Girls Better Than Gum

Editor Boston American:

The three young students pictured in your paper organized to save their cigarettes to combat the recently formed Anti-Smoking League for Women are right. Women of the new generation have acquired a taste for tobacco. The only objection to incessant smoking on the part of women is it will lead to excessive nervouness. They will find this out sooner or later.

Where women students need the curbing bit is in the classroom chewing gum while the professors are spinning out disquisitions on some intricate subject. The young students who pride themselves on manners in the classrooms at Wellesley announce that it is not polite to chew gum there. We agree to this. Always give girls the cigarette rather than have constantly moving jaws in an intellectual atmosphere.

HELEN H. HILLSON.

Timely Warning for Unskilled Labor Bosses

Editor Boston American:

The first thing to do is to give the unemployed work, but after that is done certain obligations rest upon the employers and their foremen.

All manual work requires training and skill of some degree and above all else such work requires muscular effort. Many men are liable to suffer strained backs, hernia and untold agonies of muscular strain to say nothing of sudden loss of hard won, badly needed jobs or possible permanent physical injuries unless those directing work employing green or soft men are sympathetic and conscious of the need of giving such workers a chance to harden their muscles and toughen their hands.

All sorts of men are of necessity being forced into the ranks of the common or unskilled laborers field—men from offices, shoe shops, textile mills and places where muscles and hands are not hardened to wield pick, shovel or crow bar all day. Many of the unemployed are experienced and can work for long stretches without trouble; these require no special attention, but the green men should be given time to harden, which requires rest at frequent intervals. Men are not lazy by nature, but nature requires time to adjust itself to new conditions. Men 50 or older require longer time to harden than those younger. Green men should be warned of the hazards of their new work. Personal injuries rapidly increase in gangs of green men.

Huge Oxygen Tent for Dying Woman

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 13 (AP)—A contrivance of medical science was hurried westward across the continent today in an effort to defeat death.

Mrs. Keith Spalding, philanthropist, was told yesterday a bulky oxygen tent manufactured and available only at Wilkinsburg, Pa., might save the life of Agnes Johnson, one of her employes who is dying of pneumonia.

She ordered the tent sent by train to St. Louis, where an airplane picks it up today.

DRAMA NOW TURNS TO HOMICIDE

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

FOR THOSE WHO like their drama red hot may we recommend any of the plays now at the theaters. With five of the principal temples open and doing good business, at least four of them, in an artistic sense, are indulging in homicidal instincts. The dead and dying are upon all sides. A poisoned lover in "Dishonored Lady," a double murder in "Street Scene" and an accidental killing in "Green Grow the Lilacs" round up the nightly casualties.

* * *

Nicholas Young

AS LONG as the drama must take care of its own sins, barring interference from Mr. John M Casey of City Hall, there is nothing in town that could possibly annoy or tease any solemn censor. And yet, "Dishonored Lady" has its moments and "Green Grow the Lilacs" breaks out furiously in more sensual displays than the average playgoer knows how to handle without blushing. In any event there must be offical sanction to sins properly interpreted. As an example, Katharine Cornell poisons a lover and eludes the natural consequences; in "Street Scene" an outraged husband makes a double killing and starts immediately for the chair.

* * *

THESE ARE THE REAL highlights of the drama's sin, and in one of them there is entertainment—not for its dreadful evils but for the manner in which the story is told. This, of course, is "Street Scene." The same might be said of Florence Reed in "Purity," although not with the same effect upon an audience.

The sins of "Street Scene" are one thing; the derelictions of "Dishonored Lady" and "Purity" are another.

* * *

THE REOPENING of the Copley has its own broad possibilities. At this moment with the Messrs. Strickland, Underhill and DiPesa back of the enterprise none can wonder at the hopes and aspirations of the promotors. These sponsers with the the exception of Mr. Strickland, are known to the playgoers of Boston and its environs. They are men capable in all the facilities of the drama. It was a bitter moment when Mr. E. E. Clive folded up his tent and departed to posts unknown and regions not listed among the major operations of the drama. The playgoer may now take the measure of Mr. Clive's successors when "Rebound" is presented on Friday, December 26, at the Stuart st. temple of good drama at cut prices.

* * *

IN THE MEANTIME there is promise of exceedingly good times in the down town drama, for "Strictly Dishonorable" is scheduled for a Christmas night performance at the Colonial, and Bernard Shaw's "The Applecart" will move into the Tremont on Dec. 29, in either of which the playgoer may be assured of a good time without regret.

Four Eyes With a Single Look

MARY DUNCAN AND OTIS SKINNER

LOOKING LOVE to one another are the veteran Mr. Skinner and Miss Duncan in this scene from the famous stage show, "Kismet," now the feature picture at R. K. Keith's.

Bright Lights Along the Rialto Lure to Luscious Treats in the Homes of the Drama

FLORENCE REED

MISS REED is the brilliant emotional star of "Purity," tense drama at the Plymouth.

AUDREY MAPLE

MISS MAPLE is a beautiful and able aide to Queenie Smith in "The Street Singer" which has been doing a big business at the Shubert. The stay of this show has again been lengthened.

KATHARINE CORNELL

MISS CORNELL does stellar acting in "Dishonored Lady" at the Wilbur. She is admittedly one of the finest actresses on the American stage, and her latest role is another triumph.

FLORENCE FAIR

SYMPHONY IS CONDUCTED BY BURGIN

By MOSES SMITH

Richard Burgin, concert-master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, conducts the program of this week's Symphony concerts. Overwork at Washington, where the orchestra gave a festival last week, resulted in Serge Koussevitzky's indisposition and also in an entirely different program from that originally announced.

As played at yesterday's matinee the list included a "Little Symphony" by Krenek, Czechoslovakian composer, Mozart's A major Piano Concerto, with Bruce Simonds as pianist and Sibelius' first Symphony in E minor. Throughout the concert, notably in the Symphony, it was apparent that Mr. Burgin, who has been doing odd jobs as conductor during the past few years, has definitely "arrived."

On the basis of the splendid performance of the Symphony we may rightfully refer to him as an interpreter, not merely as a drill-master called in as substitute to save the day. The reading was dynamic, emotionally sweeping, musically sensitive. One did not feel it necessary to apologize, to patronize, for Mr. Burgin's conducting, as a hurriedly prepared task. If he had been making a debut as full-fledged conductor, one would have listed him as an interpreter of great ability. Further, his handling of the orchestra—aside from an occasional faulty tone-balance—was masterly, judging from the audience, in results. The audience, in a spell during the performance, applauded lustily at its close.

Mr. Simonds' playing of the solo part of the concerto was disappointing. He has been praised as an understanding, sensitive musician. He was not that yesterday. Passage work was usually hurried, occasionally blurred. There was use of a false rubato, the left hand often unsynchronized with the right. The orchestral support was excellent. The soloist received hearty applause.

Intentness

DOROTHY SEBASTIAN

MISS SEBASTIAN is in the Columbia picture, "Brothers," at the RKO Keith Boston.

MARITAL KNOT ON SCREEN

So great has proven the popularity of Conrad Nagel in "Today" at the Park that the management has retained it as its paramount attraction for a second week. The engagement will continue until next Friday night.

Mr. Nagel, the star, and Catherine Dale Owen are excellent in the leading roles. They make the story of the hard-working husband and his luxury-loving wife one of absorbing interest. Nagel does perhaps the best work of his career and he rises to the heights in the denunciation scene. The work of the supporting cast and the intelligent direction of William Nigh make "Today" a sophisticated picture of real merit.

Again the Copley

In another fortnight the lights will again twinkle over the Copley's portals and upon its stage will be expounded substantial drama at moderate prices. The first attraction under the new regime will be "Rebound," a comedy by Donald Ogden Stewart. It has not been seen in Boston.

New faces, of course, will be seen on the stage, and a director, also new to these regions, will pilot his charges through the drama's seething waters. Mr. F. Cowles Strickland, whose stock company in Stockbridge has earned its full share of success, besides drawing warm praise from the elder statesmen along Broadway, will sit in judgment in all matters pertaining to production. Among the players engaged for the leading parts are Walter Abel and Vera Allen.

Under the new management, the Copley's business executives will show familiar faces, with Edward E. Underhill as manager, Thomas L. S. Crowell as treasurer and Joseph A. DiPesa in charge of public relations.

CHILD HAD 'HER OWN WAY' TO AVENGE DAD'S STAGE KISS

By GEORGE HASSELL

Comedian With "The Street Singer" at the Shubert

Boston by adoption! That's the way I give my home now whenever anyone asks me where I'm from. Born in England, educated in Australia, wounded in South Africa, married in America and given my real start in the theater in Boston—there you have my early record.

George Hassell

I was only in this country a couple of years when I came to Boston in 1908. I liked it so well and a few theatergoers seemed to like me here, so I stayed four years. And what four years they were. I think they were four of the happiest years I've spent in the theater. Those four years were profitably spent with John Craig and his stock company at the old Castle Square. Craig did great things for me. I was little known when I came to this country and had only a fair amount of acting experience, but through him I had an opportunity to play a wide variety of roles including characters from Shakespeare and other classical authors.

If I had my life to live over again I would want to do the very same thing again only the next time I think I would try to seek out a John Craig sooner.

It was tremendously difficult at first. All that company seemed to do was rehearse. Every time I turned around I think the stage manager was calling a rehearsal. But I can now see that this unceasing work and study as much as any other element brought to the Castle Square players the great and creditable reputation they enjoyed for years.

But through all the hard work there were many wonderful memories. It was there in the Castle Square theatre that my daughter, Virginia, made her debut on the stage at the age of three in a play called "Her Own Way."

Ah, the memories of those days! Remember our company? John Craig played leads; Mary Young, his wife, played opposite him. Theodore Freibus did the heavies; Donald Meek and Al Roberts were comedians; Marie Curtis, second woman; Kate Ryan, character woman, and yours truly, tee-hee, juvenile—on the level. Of course, that was before I put aboard this aging form these two or three hundred extra pounds of avoirdupois.

JEWELL COHAN

MISS COHAN is one of the attractive Scollayettes featured on the Scollay stage.

CHRISTMAS IS THE SLOGAN

Dave Gould, recognized as one of the best dance directors in the country, is in Boston personally supervising his "Jingle Bells" at the Scollay today.

"Jingle Bells" represent the biggest show in point of magnitude that Manager Elliston Vinson has ever had at his theater which has housed some pretty expensive and big shows in recent weeks. The production has been built especially for the Scollay, and is in the form of a pre-Yuletide extravaganza, with singers, dancers, comedians and all sorts of entertainers. The Christmas spirit of joy and merriment is followed throughout the piece, entertainment on a mammoth scale being the keynote of it all.

Plays Remaining

Katharine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady" at the Wilbur. (Second week.) Lady poisons her lover and rather neatly escapes the consequences. The last week.

* * *

"Green Grow the Lilacs" at the Tremont. (Second week.) The story of a rudely interrupted wedding night in old Oklahoma. The last week.

* * *

Florence Reed in "Purity" at the Plymouth. (Third week.) An amiable French woman befriends a broken down lad and gets much the worst of it for her kindness.

* * *

* * *

BURNING THE OIL GOOD AT MIDNIGHT

By FLORENCE REED

"Star of "Purity," at the Plymouth

The first step in histrionic character building is, of course, with the playwright. If he has created a man or woman of flesh and blood, the task of the player in making that man or woman live is immensely simplified.

Beginning my study of a character I am to create in the theater, my first mental step is to endeavor to understand the motives which actuate the woman I am to portray. The second step is to gain the right value of her attitude toward the other characters in the play; to understand her relationship to each of them. Having achieved these two things the third step is to throw the mantle of imagination over her point of view. To do this one must go back to the childhood of the character in question.

One must know all the things that have gone into the making of the woman. The playwright does not tell the players these things, but there is always enough material in his play to suggest them. Imagination and insight into human character are the things which do the rest.

And just let me say here that there is but one hour of creation—but one performance for a player in which character is really born. It comes at that moment when the player's personality is submerged by the thing created. Or else she absorbs the character she is creating. It is impossible to analyze exactly what does happen. But I do know there is always just one performance from which a character springs, full-orbed, into being. One may portray it 1000 times thereafter. It will never be the same again. One may have played the part many times before the birth of this inspiration. Thereafter the portrait may be presented over and over as a beautiful and finished product, but it radiates but once the light of birth.

It consumes her like a white flame, and never again can it be quite the same.

LET GOLD BE MINED FOR MOVIES

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

BOTH LOEW houses presented change of fare yesterday. The State had "The Lottery Bride," while the Orpheum offered that pictorial masterpiece, "Abraham Lincoln," in addition to a sterling bill of vaudeville. The last had variety's "everything," while Walter Huston's work as Honest Abe and the directorial genius of D. W. Griffith made the Orpheum's screen ring with class.

* * *

Una Merkel

TRUE, WE HAVE already reviewed the Lincoln production; but its distinction among the year's best pictures is such that it merits this further mention. Mr. Griffith has brought all his experience and imaginative ability to the front. Taking material out of real life, he is competing with talkies based upon the dream children of author and director where limitations are fewer and less stringent. Yet Mr. Griffith so manufactures his article that "Abraham Lincoln" shines as one of the best of the sound pictures. It has its comedy and its thrills, its superb acting, and a tense drama in many sequences that stirs the soul to the depths. Its motion picture values are an outstanding feature; it is head and shoulders above the common run.

* * *

SPEEDILY THE tide of entertainment streams its way across the Orpheum stage. The vaudeville has snap, color, comedy, variety. The topline act is "Lovely Ladies," featuring Miriam Hoffman and Dornella out of a score of comely maidens who are very versatile. Other bright acts are Joe May and Dotty; William Sully and Genevieve Houghton; Abe Reynolds, and Maximo.

* * *

"THE LOTTERY BRIDE" is a singing picture. Its music is by Rudolph Friml, and in its cast are Jeannette MacDonald Joe E. Brown, John Garrick, Zasu Pitts and Harry Gribbon. The story background runs a fevered temperature despite the fact that it takes us into so cold a place as ice-bound Spitzbergen. In striving for spectacular effects, the makers probably had box-office appeal in mind; there is a dance marathon, there are dirigible sequences recalling actual happenings in Arctic derring-do in recent years, and to cap the climax, there is a marriage lottery.

* * *

THE LOVERS upon whom the story-writer has centered his attention are parted through one of those strange accidents that occur from time to time in filmland. The beauteous heroine serves a term in jail. Free, she is ready for anything life may offer. She tries a matrimonial agent, and thus travels the road that puts her into the lottery. As the movies must have such things happen, she falls to a miner who is none other than the brother of her hero. But at the finish everybody is happy. The audience evidently got a good deal of amusement out of the picture, judging by the laughter. "The Lottery Bride" is at times very spectacular, but fails as true motion picture entertainment.

BEBE DANIELS IS SIGNED TO MAKE FIVE FILMS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13—All Bebe Daniels needs for 1931 and 1932 is her good health and the strength to carry on. The jobs so far as I can see, are right at her front door. She has just signed a contract with Warners for five pictures, two to be made in 1931 and three in 1932.

Louella O. Parsons

The beautiful part about the Warner Brithers arrangement is that Bebe still carries on with radio pictures. Her contract with William Le Baron in no way interferes with her work for Warners. As we announced in this column she will make "The Maltese Falcon" as the first on the new contract. Maybe some of the Warner executives had a peep at "Reaching for the Moon." If they did you couldn't blame them for grabbing for the pen and ink to sign our Bebe up as quickly as possible.

Ben Lyon is under contract to First National so the chances are that Mr. and Mrs. Lyon will often be working on the same lot.

EDDIE TOBINSON is one actor who just simply cannot stay put in New York. He goes there to open in a show and invariably some producer feels it is important to have EDDIE back. He is now on his way back here to play the most important character part in "Platinum" for James Cruze. Lola Lane has the feminine lead. Julie Cruze, the 17-year-old daughter of James Cruze and Marguerite Snow, was at the wrestling match the other night. Julie told us she had got out of a sick bed to be at the match.

"I wouldn't have missed it," she said, "if they had to carry me in on a stretcher."

Julie looks athletic herself and resembles her beautiful mother but she is more the modern boyish type.

• • •

TRAVELING THROUGH Hollywood we learn that attractive blonde, Isabel Keith, is the feminine appeal in the newest Stan Laurel-Oliver Hardy comedy. I will say for Stan and Oliver they always pick out good looking gals. By the bye, when are we going to see another one of their comedies? I need a laugh as I haven't had one in a long time. Walter Merrill, the juvenile lead in "The Office Wife."

Remember he was the boy who didn't get the secretary—well, he has been signed for the juvenile lead in a series of comedies at Universal. Young Merrill is a good looking boy but no boy is at his best when he doesn't get the girl in the picture. Freckle-faced Mickey McGuire, who was usually the heavy in "Our Gang" comedies, is making a personal appearance for Radio pictures. He opens in New York Dec. 18 and will be back in Hollywood Jan. 6.

• • •

IF EVELYN decides not to accept Warner Brothers' invitation to play opposite John Barrymore in "Trilby" there will be plenty of other girls to consider. James Young now in New York writes to say:

"I think Eleanor Boardman would give a very excellent interpretation of the part, but it really seems to me Dolores Costello would be ideal. If she is to retire permanently from the screen let us have something to remember her by like 'Trilby.' To me she is the prototype of Gerald Du Maurier's creation."

Mr. Young, you will remember, directed a silent version of "Trilby" with Andree Lafayette in the role. A telegram from New York signed "Bob" calls attention to the fact that there is Jeanette MacDonald, "Trilby," he says, has golden hair, a singing voice and perfect feet. Jeanette MacDonald has all these requisities.

Mutual Burlesque Shows

Gayety

Joan Lee will be a special featured attraction next week at the Gayety. She will be an extra attraction in addition to the full strength of Billy Arlington's own big show. She will appear at every performance. Arlington's name is usually enough to cause rejoicing among those who enjoy fun, for the famous tramp comedian is funnier each season. Arlington's show, however, boasts a roster of stars. He has Reggie White, Eleanor Cochran, Dan Taylor, Boots Bush, Harry Beasley and Vic Hallen and for a special vaudeville feature will offer Joe and Ernestine.

Joan Lee

Howard

Every year just at this season the management at the Old Howard puts forth a big wrestling card in what is termed "Wrestling Week." Beginning Monday many of the prominent mat stars will be seen in person with special matches every afternoon and night. Stanley Stasiak, "Lion of Poland," and Jack Sherry, champion of Ohio, stand ready to accept any challenge hurled at them. They will forfeit one dollar a minute to any man they fail to throw in the allotted time of ten minutes. The burlesque attraction will be the famous "Record Breakers," with Joan Collette as the dancing star.

Joan Collette

Uptown—Olympia

Modern and Beacon

Billie Dove appearing in "One Night at Susie's," now playing at the Modern and Beacon.

GOLF STORY IS 'SHEEPISH'

They have a rather cute method of keeping golf links nice and smooth in Scotland. Ask Nat Burns, half of the clever and amusing team of Burns and Allen, now headlining at the RKO Keith-Boston, for he knows! In fact, he was the one who brought the story back with him from abroad, where he and the dainty Gracie Allen have been entertaining for the past year or so.

It seems, according to the comedian, that the Scotch are thrifty as far as their golf courses are concerned. They keep sheep on the golf courses to eat the grass short and smooth, in this way saving themselves the trouble of hiring men to cut the the grass, he declares.

"It's a very pretty sight, too," stated the comedian. "The long, smooth golf courses, spotted with sheep generously distributed, makes it an attractive as well as charming place to golf in. That's one of the reasons why golfing in Scotland is preferred by so many people."

E THEL BARRYMORE as the Gullah Negress in the Peterkin-Reed drama, "SCARLET SISTER MARY," will be seen in the Wilbur Theatre for two weeks only beginning on Monday, Dec. 22. There will be matinees Dec. 26, 27, 31 and Jan. 3. Nothing produced in the theatre in this decade has aroused the interest and stirred the discussion created by Miss Barrymore's portrait of the unusual character of Si May-e. It is in great contrast to anything she ever has acted in Boston. The engagement positively is limited to two weeks. Seats on sale Monday morning. Nights (Ex. Dec. 31): Orch., $3; First Bal., $2.50, $2, $1.50; 2nd Bal., $1, 50c; New Year's Eve: Orch., $3.85; First Bal., $2.50, $2, $1.50; 2nd Bal., $1, 50c. BLIND WOMAN, AGE 108, ASKS FOR HELP

Totally blind and depending on the mercy of strangers to provide her with food and shelter, a Boston woman, 108 years old, appealed to the Helping Hand Department today for relief.

The letter, written by a neighbor, is filed as Case 115. Anyone wishing to communicate with her may obtain the address by calling the Helping Hand Department of the Boston Evening American at Liberty 4000.

AGED WOMAN'S PLEA
(Refer to Case 115)

My name is M. C. and I am totally blind. I would like a Christmas basket if you can spare it, please.

I am 108 years old. Thank you sir. May the God bless you.

This woman lives in Boston. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 115.

EIGHT NEED CLOTHING
(Refer to Case 116)

There are eight children in this family. Father is dead. One girl is very sick. The poor children going to school are only wearing summer clothes. They have no shoes and are wearing sneakers. The mother has no coat. They have no bed clothes. Any old clothes or bedding will be a welcome gift. Hoping to hear from some kind person.

This family lives in South Boston. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand. Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 116.

MOTHER'S PLEA
(Refer to Case 117)

There are 12 children in our family and I would like to know if you could do anything. The oldest of the children in our family is 18 years. My father is not working and we get only a little aid from the city. The children's ages are 18, 17, 15, 13, 12, 10, 8, 7, 5, 4, 2 and nine months.

This family lives in Boston. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 117.

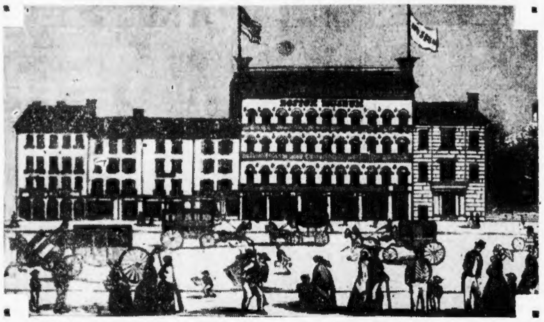
WIDOW'S APPEAL
(Refer to Case 118)

I am the mother of six children, the oldest is 12 and the youngest is one year. My husband died a year ago and I find it pretty hard sometimes to have the things we should have. We'll be glad to have someone call at our house. A basket will indeed be gratefully received and appreciated. We trust in God that not one family will be left without a dinner on Christmas Day.

This woman lives in Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate this case may learn the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case 118.

In Old Boston—No. 434

Massachusetts Tercentenary, 1930



HERE IS HOW THE EAST SIDE of Tremont st., between King's Chapel Burying Ground and Court st., looked 70 years ago. The three storied building at the right was the Suffolk Savings Bank, now at the Pemberton sq. corner. Next to the bank is the Old Boston Museum. The Kimball Building occupies these sites. The four small buildings at the left have been replaced by the Hemenway Building, at No. 10. George Washington once stopped at the building at the corner of Court st., and Samuel S. HOOVER WINS ON RELIEF BILL

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Conferees on the $118,000,000 emergency public works bill reduced the total appropriations today to $116,000,000 and restored the House provision to permit the President to use the specified sums interchangeably.

The conferees also eliminated the Senate amendment requiring that local labor be employed on all relief projects.

The reduction in total appropriations was brought about by cutting down from $5,000,000 to $3,000,000 the Senate amendment for work on unreserved public land roads.

The Senate had struck out the House provision allowing the President to shift funds from one project to another, if found warranted. President Hoover said this action would freeze the appropriations and hamper administration, even though it did relieve him of great responsibility.

The conference agreement cannot be taken up in the Senate until its conferees are formally appointed. They met in advance of appointment to speed action.

Flier Page's Widow Given Honor Cross

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Mrs. Florence Shaw Page, widow of the late Captain Arthur Page, U. S. M. C., today received the distinguished flying cross awarded posthumously to her husband. The citation said Page's pioneering and accomplishments in piloting a plane solely by instruments [illegible] contributed much toward advancement of aeronautics.

Einstein Gets Tremendous Ovation at Opera

New York, Dec. 13—Albert Einstein made a social sally from his ocean liner suite in New York Harbor yesterday to receive a delegation of fellow Jews on his ship.

With his wife and two other members of his party, the scientist went ashore to a luncheon given in his honor by Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times. This was the only one of a host of invitations Dr. Einstein accepted for his five-day stay in New York. The luncheon was entirely private.

Photographers waylaid the physicist as he left the boat and again just before the luncheon.

He was presented with a volume of the golden book of the Jewish National Fund, containing the names of those who gave money to the Palestine Fund.

Prof. Einstein attended the opera last night and was given a tremendous ovation. At the end of the first act, Prof. Einstein chanced to direct his opera glasses toward the balcony. He waved at someone he evidently recognized.

Then a flurry of applause started, which grew to a gale as it swept the whole Metropolitan Opera House and did not die away for fully three minutes. Scores pressed around Prof. Einstein's box during the intermission.

DILL TO SHOW UP LEAGUE COURT IN ADDRESS

Washington, Dec. 13—The emphatic way in which the American people have disapproved the League of Nations Court will be disclosed by Senator C. C. Dill (D.) of Washington, in a radio address tonight.

Dill will speak over a country-wide network of the National Broadcasting Company at 7:45 Eastern standard time.

An outspoken foe of the league tribunal, the Washington senator will show how the court has been overwhelmingly repudiated by the voters.

Dill will also answer the recent announcement of the American (Bok) Foundation to the effect that newspaper and editorial opinion in this country is strongly in favor of American adhesion to the court. Advocates of the court are placing great stress on this newspaper survey in an effort to convince the Senate that there is a real public sentiment in its favor.

Dill was on record against the court when the protocols were originally ratified by the Senate in 1926. Developments have convinced him that the United States was fortunate in not being a member during the present difficult times of world readjustment.

Nahant Pays Honor to Gridiron Leader

Nahant, Dec. 13—John "Red" Larkin, the first local boy ever to captain a Lynn Classical High School football eleven, was honored by more than 400 residents of this community last night.

Speakers included Fred A. Mitchell, principal of Lynn Classical, Coach William Joyce, Chief of Police Thomas Larkin and Harry McLaughlin, commander of Mortimer G. Robbins Post, 215, American Legion, under whose auspices the reception was held.

Portugal Revolt Plot Bombs Seized

Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 13 (AP)—Continuing their investigation of the revolutionary plot revealed last week, government agents today seized a trunk containing six bombs, an officer's uniform and arm bands to be worn to distinguish the plotters.

Pick Mate Who Lets You Audit Cash

College Professor Gives Girls Advice on How to Select a Husband

HE SHOULD ALLOW YOU TO AUDIT HIS FINANCES.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 13 (AP)—A business girl seeking happiness in marriage will pick a husband who permits her to audit his finances, if the advice of Dr. Edward L. Cornell of Northwestern University is followed.

He told the university co-eds for whom he outlined ten "Commandments" for a good husband:

"If you must live on a budget or an allowance, keep a fund for yourself that you don't have to audit for your husband."

Dr. Cornell, who recently attracted wide attention by advising young business men to marry their secretaries, told the girls that they should look for the following in picking a husband:

1—He should allow you to audit his finances.

2—He should be healthy enough to swim 25 yards in 30 seconds.

3—He should be willing to rear children.

4—He should be ambitious and industrious.

5—He should be willing to make you an equal partner.

6—He should possess tact and a good disposition.

7—He should be mentally stable.

8—He should not be a braggart.

THE LAST MILE

By Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER 20

IN A WAY he dreaded it—and yet he wanted to give Mayor some cheerful news and preferred to do it personally. He was afraid if he [illegible] him he might not get the [illegible].

Again Sid helped him and he went to the state penitentiary, and again he was given a guard and taken across the half square of flowers and grass, where ivy grew up and tapestried the gaunt walls with shimmering green—walls that hid mortal agony from the world—walls that caged men doomed to death under that ancient semi-[illegible] law of "a life for a life."

"Good news, Mayor—just as I told you," Dick answered. He told him, in detail, about the new evidence.

"That doesn't get me out," Mayor finally said.

"Not instantly, but it's leading to it—not out entirely, but out of this—"

Dick looked about and had difficulty in repressing a shudder. He could see that the men in the cells on either side of Cell 3 were standing close to the grates, as if listening to all that was said. Mayor noted Dick's glances.

"It's all right, Mr. Walters—you may not believe it, but these boys are pretty swell guys—much better than hundreds I've met outside. Any good news pleases them, even if it is for someone else—they're wrote that way. A great bunch—"

"Hey—good news, Three?"

It was a deep bass voice that came booming down from Cell 13.

"Sure, Sunny," Mayor answered.

"That's Sunny Jackson—a big Negro—we all like him," Mayor whispered.

"Atta boy, Fred," came another voice, and then—

"Hol—mes!"

"The crazy bird? Can't he ever say anything else?"

"Sure—Bod, it gets you, sometimes, he—"

"Out—out are the lights—out all!
And, over each quivering form,
The curtain—a funeral pall—"

One Executed

"Wickers went last night," Mayor whispered.

Dick remembered then, a man had been executed in the chair the night before.

"It's terrible—I nearly went crazy myself—the lights dim, you know, and we know that's when he's getting the juice, poor devil. The men usually howl like crazy fiends. Eddie shouted 'Hol—mes' until we near went wild and then he recited the most awful spooky poetry."

Two men called for a light.

"Do you want matches, Mayor?" he asked.

"No good—can't have them—have to ask the guards for a light—won't let us have fire—might kill ourselves and cheat the State out of the pleasure of burning us!"

"Bitter? What do you expect us to do, break into a song and dance all day?"

"My Lawd, what a mawnin'
Good Lawd, what a mawnin',
Oh Lawd, what a mawnin'
When we meets yo' face to face!"

"Aw, Sunny, can that stuff," someone yelled.

"Hol—mes!" chanted crazy Eddie Werner.

"I've seen funner places," Dick admitted and then, "well, Mayor—it looks great for you. At any rate you'll get a stay and that means time to perfect new evidence. Can I send you anything?"

They dug it wide and deep,
In the dim night light they—they—they—Hol—mes!"

Time's up, Mr. Walters," the guard said.

Dick went out into the sunshine. He shuddered.

Back from the death house, Dick went to see Ethel.

She seemed unusually pleased to see him and suggested that they go to see a picture.

"It's only a short distance. Don't bother with the car—I'd like awfully to walk, Dick," she said.

Dick would have made an effort to fly if she had asked him. Some eight blocks away the movie house was located, but between there and the theater was the church.

"There's something goin on at the church," he said.

Ethel knew very well that something was going on at the church.

"So there is—I wonder what sort of a meeting it is, Dick?"

"Looks more like a—sure it's a wedding—there's a canvas canopy from the door to the curb—some swell society affair—I wish it were for us, dear."

Who Is It?

"Oh, a society wedding—awfully interesting. Let's walk slowly, Dick. I wonder who it can be—I'd no idea there was to be a wedding here tonight."

Ethel was staring her eyes out—she knew very well that Mert Nissinger and Nina Paxton were being married there. She hoped she would see her—she wished she was in Nina Paxton's place, and then she tossed her head as she thought that Nina might be marrying Mert, but she had his love.

"Wishing it were our wedding, Ethel, dear?" Dick whispered as Ethel had slowed up in their walk.

"The big sap," was almost on the point of her tongue. She didn't want him to talk, she wanted to see and to think her own thoughts. But she had to answer him.

"Perhaps," she said, shyly.

"I don't care a hoot about this society stuff, but how I long for the day when you and I will be coming out of your little church, man and wife—won't it be wonderful, Ethel!"

"Look!" Ethel whispered, furious to hear him prate. "No, it isn't the bride, I thought it might be. I'd like to know who it is."

They had reached the church and halted before the canopy.

"A rich man named Nissinger—and the Paxton girl that owns all the mills—rotten break for him, I don't think—but that's life—he's rich and he's marrying more—pity each of 'em couldn't marry a poor person and sort of help divide up these riches—wealth ought to be divided, anyway—it all will be some day."

"Yeah?" Dick moved away. He didn't care to hear a harangue from any embryo Bolshevik.

"It is Merton Nissinger and the Paxton heiress, dear," Dick told Ethel as he stepped back beside her.

"Nissinger? I've heard the name, and of course that Nina Paxton's picture is always in the society news. I wonder—"

Ethel checked herself and stared hard. Nina Paxton was getting out of a big town car, and an elderly man, evidently some relative, was with her.

"She isn't half as beautiful as you are, dear," Dick whispered.

This pleased Ethel. With all of her devilish shrewdness she was open to flattery.

How Clever He Was!

It was still light, although inside the church was illuminated. Ethel watched Nina Paxton go up the walk and into the church on the arm of the elderly man, and although her face was quite serene in expression, her heart was filled with mingled bitterness, envy and gloating.

She did wish Mert would come along. Perhaps he had already arrived. She couldn't give much of an excuse to linger, now that the bride had passed in. She couldn't very well let Dick think that she had the least interest in the groom.

And just then another car arrived, the door opened. There was laughter and Mert Nissinger and his best man stepped out.

"That's Nissinger," Dick whispered.

As if Ethel didn't know him!

"Is it?" she asked, artlessly.

Her eyes were staring at him with all the effort she could summon to make him look at her.

"Yes, I've met him—pleasant chap, sporty, but most rich young men are."

Even as she stared, Ethel wanted to say to Dick, "I've met him—a hundred times—you'd be surprised!"

Still she stared. Mert Nissinger said something to his chauffeur and turned to go up and into the church. To her mingled delight and horror he smiled and lifted his silk hat.

Dick bowed, thinking Nissinger had recognized him.

"He remembered me," Dick whispered.

"Of course—if he met you. Seeing that he never even heard of me I didn't think he was bowing to me," but Ethel's heart was pounding.

She saw Mert Nissinger disappear into the church. She wanted to get away then. When he came out he would have a wife—Ethel thought she couldn't stand it to see that snobbish Nina Paxton coming out as Mrs. Merton Nissinger, and smirking and clinging to his arm.

She wanted to go home, to be alone, up in her room. Mert had really lifted his hat to her, and smiled at her. How clever he was! When he recognized Dick he took the opportunity to make it appear that he was just greeting Dick, knowing she would understand.

When they went home after the picture the church was dark, the canopy was down and Ethel realized, more than ever, that Mert Nissinger now had a wife to divide his time with.

Dick laughed.

It annoyed her.

"What is so awfully funny?" she asked.

"Oh, something I know about Nissinger—some day I'll tell you. Lots of funny things we can talk about after we are married, dearest—and I'm banking on your finally saying that great, big, all-important, happiness-making 'yes' to me."

"I—I suppose so, Dick. Er—what was it so funny that you know about Mr. Nissinger,"

"Afraid you might be shocked, darling."

CHURCHES

MR. T. KING TO CELEBRATE TOMORROW

Early association with Catholics, Jews, and Protestants, led Theophilus King of Quincy, to create a benevolent fund which he called "The King Family Fund," and which was to be distributed each year money to churches, social and educational agencies.

Tomorrow, on his 86th birthday, there will go to 35 churches and synagogues located in Quincy $100 each—and an additional $700 to seven churches outside Quincy. This benevolent fund also includes girl and boy scouts, Y. M. C. A., Family Welfare, Lord's Day League, Sparta Industrial and Agricultural School—a Colored School in Georgia—Quincy W. C. T. U.; Boys' Club of Boston, Massachusetts S. P. C. C., hospitals, nurses' associations, and many other helpful organizations, both within and without the city of Quincy.

The King Family Fund was founded in a small way in 1912. In his statement at that time Mr. King gave out the following explanation:

"A most impressive experience with a young Catholic priest just as he was entering upon his life work (now a splendid Father of his church) revealed to me the thoughts and teaching pressed home to those preparing for that sacred office, in such a way that I was compelled to recognize the great and sacred standards of the Catholic Church.

"Nor can I ever forget the thoughts that came to me nearly a score of years ago when I worshipped in the Jewish synagogue in the City of Brussels, reading over its doors as I entered the church these words, 'We are all children of One Father. Come, let us worship Him' . . .

"Thus progressively, and in many ways of further enlightenment through a very wide association with men in business experience has my life and thought been influenced and convictions strengthened that the nearer coming together of all the churches, and those worshipping therein, through the breaking down of prejudices and the better understanding of each other's religious faith is one of the most important movements of the world."

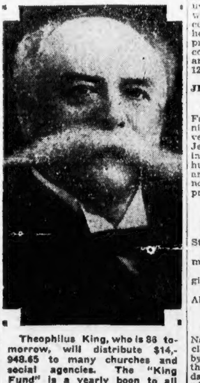
K. OF C. PLAN TO ASSIST MANY

Peter W. Collins of Boston has been summoned to Washington to give details to Col. Arthur Woods, head of the national emergency committee, and to tell what he knows of nation-wide plans being perfected by the Knights of Columbus for relief in the present unemployment crisis. Mr. Collins was formerly an industrial expert of the United States Government, and later was made director of the K. of C. emergency comittee.

The Sacred Heart Country Day school in Newton is having the last of a series of lectures on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 14th. Dr. Frederick Kinsman will give a talk on "The Medici Family, Its Influence in Three Centuries." Dr. Kinsman is a well known authority on the subject, as well as the author of many books.

The second term of the Evening Classes conducted by the Young Men's Catholic Association in the Boston College High School building will begin on Monday, January 5, 1931. The work now being conducted in the 40 different courses will be continued in an advanced degree and new courses for beginners will be opened in almost every subject.

86 Tomorrow



Theophilus King, who is 86 tomorrow, will distribute $14,948.65 to many churches and social agencies. The "King Fund" is a yearly boon to all denominations including Protestant, Catholic and Jewish.

HERE AND THERE AMONG THE CHURCHES

MANNING VS. LINDSEY

Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, pastor of the Dudley St. Baptist Church, will discuss tomorrow from his pulpit a question of great news interest: "Is Judge Lindsey or Bishop Manning Right?" A junior chorus of 70 voices and the Concorde Male Quartet will furnish the musical program. In the evening at this church the Odd Fellows will be guests with the women's auxiliary from the Roxbury section. The entire service will revolve around the "Three Links."

LORD'S DAY LEAGUE

Dr. Robert Watson general secretary of the Lord's Day League of New England, will preach tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in the Presbyterian Church, Hyde Park, Mass. Subject: "The Four Essentials of the Christian Religion." He will preach in the evening at 7:30, in the Free Baptist Church, Warren st. Roxbury, Mass., on "Living Epistles."

"WILL CHRIST BE DISAPPOINTED?"

The Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of Tremont Temple, will preach tomorrow morning on "Will Christ Be Disappointed When He Comes to Boston?" He will also discuss the question of whether Christ is really coming again. In the evening there will be a three-cornered discussion on 'What kind of religion is needed today?"

"HUMANITY UPROOTED"

Edward Markham, the poet, will be guest of honor at the Copley Methodist Church when the Rev William L. Stidger preaches on this author's book. "Humanity Uprooted," a treatise on Communism and the Russian revolution."

BAPTIST MINISTERS

"Unemployment" is the topic for a regular meeting of the Baptist ministers Monday morning in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple, with Mr. Roy Cushman, secretary for the Boston Council of Social Agencies, as chief speaker. The hour of meeting it 10:30.

CHRISTMAS USHERED IN

One of the first Christmas programs to be announced comes at the First Methodist Church tomorrow evening at the annual carol service. Congregation and choir will combine in this singing, led by the new minister of music, Mr. Kenneth C. Howe. There will be a reading by Miss Viola Goddard, who will give George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" and "The Sweetest Story." "The Divinity of Toil" is the sermon for Mr. Hill in the morning.

HIGH TRIBUTE

The Rev. E Tallmadge Root, for 23 years secretary for the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, was given a splendid tribute by the executives of the Federal Council of Churches of America in Washington, D. C., recently at their annual meeting. He was spoken of as one of the pioneers who saw the vision of a united Protestantism and who has been effective in bringing a better understanding and increased friendship among many denominations.

This evening a dinner will be given in his honor at the Harvard Club. Ministers and friends will be the guests of the Rev. George Lyman Paine, executive secretary of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Dec 14.

The Golden Text is: "Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: let thy loving kindness and thy truth continually preserve me" (Psalms 40:11).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore" (Psalms 121:1, 2, 8).

JEWISH CITIZENS AND THEIR GUESTS

Boston Jewry will assemble in Faneuil Hall next Wednesday evening to celebrate the 275th anniversary of the settlement of the Jews in the United States. Special invitations have been sent out to hundreds of guests, both Jewish and non-Jewish. A program of notable historic interest has been prepared.

CATHOLIC RADIO PERIOD

Broadcast from Station WNAC

Under auspices of Massachusetts State Council, K. of C.

Speaker, Dr. Frederick J. Kinsman.

PADLOCK ASKED FOR 6 PLACES IN RUM WAR

Gracie Sees Notables at Cafe Lunch

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend. He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but "he has a rare smile." Wilda's father dies and her mother, Gracie, becomes a different woman when the lawyers say the estate will amount to $100,000. She plans a trip to Europe. Wilda has a wonderful time at a house party where Logan asks her to marry him. Myrtle, who is determined to win Logan, turns up and strives to get him for herself.

By MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1930)

YOUTH! DEW on the grass. It wasn't only the young men, then, like Logan, who were attracted by youth, but the mature, the worth-while, the prosperous, fell for it.

Well, if she couldn't achieve the real thing, she would be the counterfeit!

* * *

Gracie ordered clothes recklessly that morning.

It was an orgy of shopping.

But vainly.

Gracie Apologizes

She Was Too Hasty

She bought one in the end. and insisted on there and then wearing it.

"Isn't it cute?"

And then the girl looked at her wrist watch and gave a little exclamation of dismay.

"What's the trouble?" Gracie inquired.

"Why, it's noon. I've got to call up Logan."

"Whatever for?"

"I said I'd lunch with him today."

"Where?"

"Downtown."

"Why, Wilda, we aren't half through. You wouldn't go off and leave me alone?"

"I'll be right back. Logan doesn't have long. Or—wouldn't you come with me, too? It isn't so far in the subway."

But diplomacy was needed now. To speak her real mind would simply create antagonism and send Wilda hurtling down to a rendezvous with her sweetheart

"No. There's far too much to do. You wait."

Plenty of Time

Steamer Sails Wednesday

"Phone him. He'll understand we've heaps on hand. Explain I'm with you, and you're advising me and so can't make it."

Blank disappointment shone on Wilda's face. She hesitated.

"You've plenty of time to see him between now and Wednesday night," pleaded her mother. "You stay—to please me. Otherwise we'll be awfully held up in our shopping, Wilda. And now's my last chance, because I'm starting the packing this evening."

Vexed as she was, to Wilda the request, put in this light, did seem more logical.

So she yielded. Called up Logan and cancelled their appointment.

"I was waiting for your ring. Say, Wilda, I'm disappointed you can't meet me this morning."

"You'll come out to the house tonight?" Her voice was almost harsh with eagerness.

"Um-m. Yes. But it'll be late. You know—what with these big breaks in the market—the accounts have to be kept up to date. After I have a conference with the boss, I have to go and see some of my best customers. A lot of margins are required again. Getting all this seen to, may detain me. You understand?"

She said faintly: "Yes—" and with an unaccountable sinking of the heart, hung up the receiver. ... ...

Thousand Sail for Christmas Abroad

Pup in Line for Medal Now

Police Rescue Seven Children in Cambridge Fire

Seven children were carried out of a dwelling house in the rear of 253 Norfolk st., Cambridge, and four adults were driven out when the building was ignited by a fire in a shed in the rear of the Russell Candy Co. early today.

Rita Concannon, 12, was awakened by the barking of her dog, Prince. She got up and aroused her parents just as two policemen arrived to give aid, having been attracted to the scene by the fire in the nearby shed.

The children were carried out by Patrolman Charles P. Morrison of the Central sq. station, and Leo Duggan of the East Cambridge station. They are Reuben, 15, Max, 13, Samuel, 10, Edward, 9, Milton, 8, and Henry, 6, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weisberg, and Rita Concanon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Concannon, who live on the first floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Concanon and Mr. and Mrs. Weisberg were driven to the street. Both families were taken care of by neighbors.

The fire was caused by hot ashes, police say. It spread to an adjoining shed and then to the dwelling. The loss is estimated at $1000.

Smoker Is Rescued From Blazing Room

Firemen rescued Thomas O'Rourke, 33, from his burning room in Hancock st., Dorchester, today. He was taken to the City Hospital suffering from inhalation and second degree burns. Police said the fire was started by O'Rourke smoking in bed.

Speed Boat Safety Bills Are Filed

A bill to prohibit persons under 16 years of age from operating power boats was filed today at the State House by Representative Lewis R. Sullivan of Dorchester.

As a further precaution against accidents, Sullivan filed two other bills which would require a boat under oars in Boston harbor to display a white light and would limit the speed of boats propelled by machinery to 10 miles an hour when passing within 150 yards of a pier, wharf, bathing beach, boat landing or anchorage.

TWO LINERS CARRY N. E. THRONGS

Series of Entertainments Is Planned En Route; "Vagabond" Tropic Cruises Start

One thousand New Englanders left Boston today on two ocean liners to spend Christmas in European countries. They sailed on the Hamburg-American liner St. Louis and the steamship Samaria of the Cunard line. Many of those who sailed planned to be with relatives abroad during the holiday season.

In command of Capt. Robert Nise the St. Louis left Boston shortly afternoon for Galway, Hamburg and Chergourg, after remaining in this port one hour. Included among the passengers were excursionists under the direction of Joseph Mohan, bound for Ireland to spend Christmas with relatives and friends.

PASSENGERS ABOARD

Among the passengers are Charles Derickson, Miss Marian W. Anderson, Mrs. G. H. Wallace, Burton Brown, Arthur Johnson, Miss Clara Lattner, Miss Anna T. Clune, William P. McCurry, J. M. McKinnen, Eugene Rusch, James P. Tyrell and Mr. and Mrs. William N. Anger, all of Greater Boston; George J. McCann, Henry Hannon, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scanlon, John J. MacDonald, Thomas Neary, John Ryan and John Cunan.

On the Samaria was an excursion party headed by John J. Lynch of the Boston Cunard office, who also planned a series of entertainments en route. Among the New Englanders who sailed on the Samaria were Mrs. Mary C. Reynolds, Miss Helen T. Elms, Charles Cartdright, Miss Anne Lowson, Mr. and Mrs. U. I. Hight, Charles S. Roadnight, Dr. William M. McAlister, Arthur E. Burton, Charles D. Field, Miss Guelda Waller, Miss Vera E. J. Macenochie, Miss E. Garner Size, Mr. and Mrs. William L. V. Field of Milton, Mrs. M. L. Boynton of Wenham, Miss Jeannett Moscript of Newton Highland, Mrs. William S Day and Miss Catherine McCarthy of Cambridge, Spdney T. Heap of Jamaica Plain and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crowther of Pittsfield.

CRUISE TO TROPICS

The first of the season's "vagabond cruises" to the tropics started at noon, when the S. S. San Benito, United Fruit Co., left Long Wharf for Havana, Kingston, Puerto Castillo and Tela, carrying a number of tourists and a capacity cargo. Capt. D. M. Macdonald was in command.

Among the passengers were Theodore Ellis of Springfield, Vt., Joaquin Demaatre o Cambridge, Mrs. W. E. Brownell of Boston and Mrs. Eva Mendoza, Mario Mendoza and Raquel Mendoza of Lawrence.

The San Benito carried a large stock of Christmas gifts for Americans in Cuba, Jamaica and Honduras.

Gov. Allen Out of State on Business

Governor Allen is in New York and Chicago on a business trip. He expects to return Wednesday. During his absence Lieut.-Gov. William S. Youngman is acting as chief executive.

TWO INJURED IN AUTO PLUNGE

An automobile containing four people leaped an embankment on Ballard st., Saugus, today, fell eight feet to the marsh below and turned over on its side, injuring two of the occupants.

Persons claiming to be John O'Donnell of Cranes ct., Woburn and Marie Marquette of Mountford st., Boston, received lacerations of the body and face. A man who said he is Henry McCall of Sheridan circle, Winchester, was uninjured.

A fourth unidentified person, who McCall said was a young married woman of West Lynn and who, he told police, was driving the car, wandered away from the scene of the accident. Police, believing she may have entered the marsh, searched for her but found no trace

Patrolman William McDougal, of the Saugus police, liberated the occupants of the car by breaking the windows. Police said they found a quart bottle of whisky in one of the side pockets of the machine.

McCall said he had borrowed the car from Arthur P. Edmonds, of North Woburn.

$100,000 Stadium to Aid Quincy Jobless

Quincy will attempt to relieve the unemployment situation by building a $100,000 stadium for the use of Quincy school children, it was announced today by Franklin S. Nichols, chairman of the unemployment committee.

The money will be raised by popular subscription. Jim Maloney, heavyweight boxer, a member of the committee, probably will fight a leading heavyweight in Quincy for the benefit of the fund, Nichols stated.

Thieves Get $40

Thieves broke into the grocery store of Fred Malalester in Salem st., North End, and stole $40 from thecash register, it was discovered today. Investigation by Inspector William Philbrick revealed the entrance was made by cutting a hole in the wall of a building next door.

Four 10-year-old Charlestown boys, eager to see the world, had their wanderings abruptly terminated by Patrolman Thomas Walsh of the West Roxbury station today when he found them asleep in the Boston Elevated station at Forest Hills.

The boys told police their names were Thomas and Edward Walsh, brothers, of Sackville st; John Ash of Chelsea st. and James King of Lexington st., all of Charlestown.

Melrose Letter Carrier Praised

Cornelius B. Gillis, letter carrier attached to the Melrose branch of the Boston postal district, was today commended by Postmaster Charles R. Gow for work that he has done in that section by having mail boxes installed along his route of delivery.

Some time ago the usual custom for Gillis was to slide the mail under the door. Suggestions and ways of making mail boxes at home were given members of numerous families by the letter carrier and now it is outfitted 100 per cent with mail boxes.

FREIGHT WRECK DELAYS TRAINS

Five thousand workers and Christmas shoppers bound for Boston were delayed from 5 to 20 minutes today when a Boston & Maine freight train broke down twice.

The freight first pulled a draw bar between Lawrence and Haverhill at 5 a. m., delaying the arrival of "The Gull," crack train from the Canadian provinces and northern Maine, in Boston, 21 minutes. The early morning local from Haverhill and Lawrence to Boston was also delayed by this breakdown.

Later the same freight split a switch at the entrance to Lawrence yard and one car was derailed, effectively blocking both main tracks to Boston.

As a result of this derailment it was necessary to detour nine Boston-bound trains from Haverhill and Lawrence. This caused delays of from 5 to 25 minutes in arrival at destination.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

SO. BOSTON PLACE FACES CONTEMPT ACTION

Assistant Corporation Counsel Schwartz Files Actions in Superior Court

Petitions asking permission to padlock six places because of alleged illegal sales of liquor, and a petition asking that the occupants of another location be declared in contempt of court, were filed in equity motion session of Superior Court by Assistant Corporation Counsel Leo Schwartz today. Judge Louis Cox issued orders of notice returnable January 2 in all the cases.

In the six cases where permission to padlock is asked, temporary injunctions against the premises are sought.

The premises the court is asked to order padlocked are located in the following places: Water st., Charlestown, Neal McLaughlin, owner and occupant; injunction also sought against John Walsh; Silver st., South Boston, Catherine Powers, occupant and owner, injunction also sought against Charles T. Gallagher; Howe ave., South Boston, Earl M. Rhodes, occupant and owner, injunction also sought against Augusta A. Reid; Norman st., West End, Reta Manoli, occupant, injuction also sought against Leo Morana; Camden st., South End, Estelle Nobles, owner, Charles Green, occupant; Romsey st., Dorchester, Sarah Spellman, owner, Anthony Katowsky, occupant.

Atty. Schwartz petitioned the court to find Alice, Joseph and Francis Cacciotta and Frank J. Marlow in contempt of court for alleged violation of temporary injunction now in force on premises in West Sixth st., South Boston.

Missing Boy, 5, Home Again After "Spree"

Harry Woodland, 5 son of Mr. and Mrs. John Woodland, of Cottage Rd., Cliftonville, walked calmly into his home today after police of Lynn, Saugus and Malden had conducted a frantic search for him since yesterday noon.

Harry announced that he had been having a "wonderful time," as the guest of Leroy Duncan, 12, of Wanesit ave., Cliftonville. He said they had taken a trip into Lynn, where he met Santa Claus, and, incidentally, smoked their first cigarettes.

Wife Jails Man Held in Auto Theft Case

Taken to Lynn from Providence to face a six-year-old warrant charging larceny of an automobile, Theodore A. Landers, 42, was in Lynn district court today where his wife greeted him with a charge of non-support. He was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction on the latter charge and held in $2000 bail for the grand jury on the larceny charge.

Chase Files Bill to Speed Public Works

Rep. Chester W. Chase of New Bedford today filed a bill at the State House to suspend for one year the law which requires cities and towns, in making loans within the debt limit, to appropriate a sum equal to 25 cents on each $1000 of assessed valuation. The proposed suspension is for the purpose of putting through public works to help the employment situation.

Waiting Game Best for 'Broken-Hearted'

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6:35 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a girl of 18. I've been going with a fellow for seven months and he's been coming to see me almost every night until lately. He said that he is in love with another girl and says he loves us both and doesn't know which one to go with. He says he wants us both. I told him he can't have both of us. Please tell me what to do.

Beatrice Fairfax

BROKEN-HEARTED

Dear Broken-Hearted: Difficult as it may seem, the waiting game is the only one for the girl. Certainly he can't have both of you and he knows you well enough to know whether or not he wants to continue his relations with you. If you must tell him something, tell him to try and make up his mind before you find someone else who is more dependable—and mean it!

On His Waiting List

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

Would you please answer this letter for me. I am 16 and good looking. I am in love with a boy a year older than me. When I meet him on the street he smiles and speaks to me. How could I get his attention? If I don't see him and he sees me he will call my name and wave his hand. Does that mean he likes me? I have known him ever since a child. How could I win his attention? Please answer this letter for me.

WONDERING

Dear Wondering: It seems to you have all the attention you might reasonably expect from a young man that you have known all your life. Probably he isn't ready to tie unto himself a steady girl friend, and I advise you to be as ladylike and nice as possible, so that when he does make up his mind he can think of you as being on the list of eligibles.

Didn't Like His Dancing

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I have been going with a young man since last January, and in the beginning of our friendship he would see me two evenings a week. We went to dances and I'd always give him the first and last dance, and sometimes dances in between. But he doesn't go to the same dances I do any more because I told him I didn't care for the way he jumped around at them. Then he stopped taking me to dances and shows. He is very easily offended. Toward the end of our acquaintance he often told me he loved me but I think if he does he'd come to see me. I am sure he doesn't go around with other girls. My friends tell me I am too soft.

BLUE EYES

Dear Blue Eyes: I don't blame the young man for becoming offended when you told him you didn't care for the way he jumped about in dancing. Men are peculiarly sensitive at being considered awkward. Write him a note and say you've missed him and when he comes, tell him you're sorry for criticizing his dancing.

He Lost His Way!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 16 and in love with a boy of 18. We used to be together a good deal, and he would phone me nearly every day. I live in the city with my aunt, as my mother is dead. I was obliged to go to the country and my friend came to see me the night before I left and promised to come the following Sunday, but he didn't come. I wrote to him but never received an answer to my letter. When I returned to the city I got a letter from him saying he started to the country to see me but lost his way. Although he had been out there once before, it was at night. Shall I phone him and let him know I am back in the city now?

LONESOME

Dear Lonesome: It would be all right to phone him, but it it looks to me as if this young man might have been a little more attentive to you than he has been, and I shouldn't follow up the phone call if he doesn't respond.

Emergency Methods to Use for Croup at Night

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

ONE OF the most painful experiences of childhood is the ailment formerly known as "membranous croup." We hear that name infrequently these days because now it is recognized as a mild form of diphtheria.

Dr. Copeland

The symptoms of this condition are caused by an inflammation of the larynx, the windpipe, with the formation of a false membrane. It usually attacks the child between the ages of two and five years.

The attack may start as a cold does. There may be some fever, and general discomfort. It may come very suddenly in other cases.

In a suddent attack, which is apt to come on at night, the child is awakened from sleep gasping for breath. The mucuous membrane lining the throat is so swollen that scarcely any air can pass through. There is a sharp, barking cough, with what is usually described as a "metallic sound." The fever increases and the pulse is rapid.

The child appears to be desperately sick. It is natural that the mother should feel terrified. But heroic measures should be taken at once, so she must be as calm as possible. The first thing to do is to send for a doctor. While awaiting his coming there are certain things to be done to give relief to the little sufferer.

Put the child in a hot bath at a temperature of about 100 degrees. Be careful not to have the water too hot, so as to scald the little patient. Try the heat of the water on your elbow to make sure it is safe for the child.

Keep the little patient in the bath for 15 to 20 minutes. At the same time cold compresses should be applied to the head.

In an older child a hot foot bath, to which a teaspoonful of mustard has been added may be adequate to draw the blood from the upper part of the body. When this takes place it gives relief to the sufferer.

Syrup of ipecac or syrup of squills is sometimes given to induce vomiting so that the mucus accumulation in the throat may be cleared away. But every such remedy, all drugs indeed, should be given only when the family doctor prescribes.

The child is usually frightened at the extreme difficulty in breathing. He wants to be taken up and carried. Keep the child well wrapped and guarded against exposure if taken from bed.

It may be necessary to apply a treatment known as "intubation." In this a tube is inserted in the throat, enabling the child to breathe. Fortunately this procedure is rare these days. Antitoxin has saved the necessity of operation in thousands of cases.

The important thing to remember is to apply the immediate treatment I have outlined. This is likely to give relief to the sufferer.

Membranous croup is always a dangerous thing to handle. The larynx is in the narrowest part of the respiratory passage, so that a slight obstruction may prove serious.

I never think of this ailment which used to be so common when I was a young doctor, without a feeling of extreme thankfulness that science has found a means of prevention. With the universal inoculation against diphtheria membranous croup will disappear.

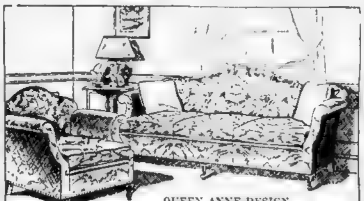
What's in Fashion?

Furniture—a Gift of Comfort

Directed by AMOS PARRISH



QUEEN ANNE DESIGN

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. Lots of families are getting together this year and giving themselves a nice, big, fine Christmas gift. Something they can all enjoy. Furniture for example.

It's certainly a good year to do just that. Furniture has never been better looking, never more of a bargain. And comfort in the home never more appreciated.

A good thing to think about if you're thinking about furniture—is the two-piece suite of sofa and chair that's going into so many fashionable living rooms. Because it means comfort for the whole family.

For the father of the family—tired of his office swivel chair. For the mother—wearied from the hundreds of trips back and forth, up and down the house. Even for the children who won't admit they're tired, but who are willing to relax if they can curl up on a soft cushion.

These two-piece suites are particularly good Christmas presents, because you can fit them into living rooms in less space than a larger suite would take. Yet they give you more comfort—obviously—than just a chair.

Queen Anne Suite

One good fashion in two-piece suites is shown above. It's Queen Anne type, as you can see from the curved back and curved legs. And it's a favorite because so many living rooms have other Queen Anne type pieces in them.

Notice the cut out places at the front of the arms. Know why they're there? It's because in Queen Anne's day ladies' skirts were full and billowy, and the cut-out places in the arms gave the skirts a chance to spread out when the ladies sat.

Of course we don't need those cut-outs now, even with skirts longer and fuller than they were a while ago. But they're graceful—make the chair and sofa look more attractive so they're still included in the design.

This set looks comfortable, doesn't it? And graceful with pretty curves. It's much more Queen Anne pieces were. Built lower . . . more stuffing . . . and extra cushions on the seats. Upholstered in brocade or damask, it makes one of the most-in one of the most-in fashion 1930 Christmas gifts.

Modern Suite

A suite with just as much comfort but with more modern lines is the one illustrated below. You don't need any particular period style of furniture in your living room to ensemble this set well. It goes with anything. Because its lines are plain and simple.

Tapestry, mohair, brocatelle, rep or frieze are good materials for the upholstery—sturdy nice-looking and in fashion. Choose them in a color that goes with the other upholsteries in your room, and you're making yourself a Christmas present that makes the living room more decorative—and the whole family comfortable.

SIMPLE MODERN SUITE

BROKEN RAINBOWS -:- By May Christy

Lunch was suggested, after a bout of shoe buying.

"I'm hungry as a hawk," announced Mrs. Gardner.

They were on Madison at 46th and Wilda looked around for a restaurant.

They passed the door of the Ritz-Carlton. "Oh, Wilda let's go in! For once in our lives! Wouldn't it be a riot?"

She was standing on the side walk now, her eyes full of excitement.

"All my life I've wanted to go in here and see the swell people! And now we've come into money, there's no reason why we shouldn't . . ."

"The Automat."

"Good heavens! Where on earth do you get your taste from?"

Wilda Vexed

At Missing Logan

"I won't budge a step. For once in my life I'm going to assert myself." Which was so exaggerated a statement from the obstinate Gracie that Wilda in any other situation would have laughed aloud.

"All right. You win," she said. They went in through the revolving swing doors.

It was early yet for lunch. They blinked in the dim gold light of the foyer.

"There's a grill downstairs. Would you like to go there, mother?"

"No, no. In the society columns it's the upstairs one I've read about—the 'oval' restaurant!"

They passed through the palm decorated lounge. Gracie put on a bold front to hide the fact that she was nervous.

Then up some softly carpeted stairs. A head waiter disengaged himself from a group of servitors and came forward, bowing and smiling.

"This way." He was going to lead them to a remote corner.

It had a good view of the entrance. Here she would see the comings and goings of everybody.

"As madame desires." He smiled unconsciously.

He beckoned a waiter and the man came forward with a card.

If she had only studied French! Such an assortment of foreign sounding dishes!

"Here, mother, give me the card. I'll help you."

But Gracie had it on an old french table [illegible] Irish Stew. [illegible] was no [illegible] in that . . . And what about honeydew melon?"

And when the head-waiter [illegible] if she wouldn't like [illegible] oysters for a start, she was [illegible] that she [illegible] him nay but fell for his [illegible] suggestion.

[illegible] was [illegible]. Too bad she [illegible] these [illegible] not had been [illegible] Flatbush.

"Wilda! That black satin collared with ermine—isn't it queenlike?"

Another stifled exclamation, "Wilda, that tall girl at the door—I'll bet it's Dolores Delmonico, the movie actress!"

Now, Wilda herself had become quite excited. This was a new "milieu" for her. Despite her regrets about the money spent, it was rather delightful.

An orchestra, banked with ferns, played softly, just outside the door, making a delightful underlone to the bustle of the restaurant and the lunchers' voices.

There was beauty here. Restraint. Refined surroundings.

"Look at that dowager coming in. So quietly dressed, but see her rope of pearls! And the gray pompadour!"

"Could you tell me who she is?"

The head waiter bent deferentially. He lowered his voice. "That's Mrs. Gandergill." It was as though he spoke of royalty.

"Mrs. Gandergill?" Gracie's eyes started out of her head under the new chapeau. "Why, isn't . that ..marvelous?"

"Please point out more celebrities," said she. "That lady in the little balcony up on the left—the one who keeps raising her glasses?"

"Lorgnette," corrected the backbone of the Ritz, with a patronizing smile. "That's Lady Brant, the English society leader. They say she's a great favorite in England with Queen Mary."

"Imagine that!" And Gracie regarded the haughty dame with admiring awe. "Oh—coming in at the door—who is that party?"

Gracie Thrilled

At Seeing Millionaires

He added: "And that stout gentleman who's just come in is Mr. R. T. Dorgan, the banker."

"The richest man in the world . ?"

"This," said Gracie Gardner, partaking of a chocolate parfait with meticulous good manners (one must mind one's p's and q's here in the Ritz). "is the place to take a nice girl for luncheon."

"Why?" Wilda turned her eyes from the interesting crowds and regarded the glowing face of her mother. "If you mean it's my proper sphere, you're wrong. Much as I enjoy it, I'm no orchid."

"Don't talk like that. With the money that we've got, you've no call to have an inferiority complex."

Said Wilda, thoughtfully: "But I haven't anything of the sort. In my own way, so far as my standards go, I don't consider myself inferior to those people. But I'm—different."

Beauty Problems That Arise During Cold Weather

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

COLD WEATHER brings with it a score of beauty problems from [illegible] chapped skin. Often [illegible] on the body and ankles and [illegible] the first to suffer, and it takes weeks of daily attention to set matters right again.

Josephine Huddleston

Usually a liberal application of olive oil or oil of sweet almonds applied at night and permitted to remain on until morning, brings quicker relief than any other method. In the morning the oil should be sponged off with rubbing alcohol. Ordinarily the application of alcohol on dry skin would not be recommended because alcohol is drying in its action. But it also stimulates circulation and tends to make the skin harder, thus making it more resistant to the coldish breezes [illegible] with its [illegible].

When [illegible] dried [illegible] amount of skin lotion should be used for correcting chapped hands over the ankles and legs letting it remain on for a few minutes before removing the excess lotion. Then dust bath powder over the skin, removing the excess powder with a clean puff or pad of cotton.

Lotions which have a large percentage of almond and honey in their composition are excellent for this, because of their high remedial value. Such lotions are sticky, however, and that is why the excess should be wiped off and the powder applied.

The little remaining lotion serves as a base for the powder making it adhere to the skin instead of coming off on one's stockings. Thus the skin itself is treated and one's stockings are kept clean, too.

Another Winter beauty problem is chapped lips. Camphor ice has proven effectual for correcting this trouble. Just smooth it over your lips before applying rouge and powder. And—this seems to be the real secret of its success—let a little of the camphor ice spread out onto the skin directly around the lips, to make sure the rims are amply covered. Use only a little of the camphor ice, and massage it well into the skin then apply your cheek rouge and pat on powder. After removing the excess powder with a camel's hair brush, rouge your lips and . . . your make-up will apear normal despite the protective and healing ointment underlying it.

Only a little of the camphor ice is required at this time, and if it is massaged well into the skin, to outward appearances, it serves merely as a powder base around the lips. At night, before retiring, and during the day when you are not on parade, keep a liberal amount of camphor ice on the lips to insure their resistance to chapping.

Late Supper Invitation Accepted

By MRS. BEECKMAN.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

1. How should you respond to a gentleman when he says to you, after coming out of the theater, "Would you like a lunch?" I have many times said "No, thank you," when I didn't mean it simply because I did not know just what was the proper thing to say.
2. After coming from a theater with a young friend, should a girl invite him in for a while, that is, if it is not too late.
3. Should she thank him?
4. When a girl has been riding with a young man and they return home rather early, should she make a move to get right out of the car, or, if they remain sitting in the car talking for a while, is it the young man's place to mention going home first, or is it proper for the man to remain until the girl says something to the effect that she must be "getting in"? (It is the young man's car, of course.)

L. C.

1. If you wish to go for a "snack" after the theater, the correct way to say that you do is just the natural way, "Thank you, I should enjoy very much going for a bite," or "Thank you. Yes."
2. Yes—if it really isn't too late, and if this doesn't interfere with the household plans.
3. Yes—always.
4. It is the girl's privilege to suggest the time of leaving, always. And it isn't good form for her to remain sitting in the car when they return home. If she wishes to talk further, she should suggest that they go into the house.

A Correct Phrase

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

Will you kindly let me know the correct way to speak of two maiden ladies? Does one say "I saw the Misses Jones"? If not, what is the correct form?

INQUIRER

Yes, this is correct.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Attractive New Ways For Cooking Squash

By MARTHA LEE.

Organizer and Conductor of New England's Largest Homemakers' Club of Over 37,000

WITH SQUASH one of the most economical buys on the vegetable counters now is a good time [illegible] of new and attractive ways to serve this healthful vegetable.

Martha Lee

At lunch at the S[illegible] last week I ordered baked squash and it was served in a three-inch square, baked right in the shell, dotted with butter and sprinkled with pepper and salt. Some people like to add one-half teaspoon of molasses and one-half teaspoon of butter to each square when baking, and the time required is about 50 minutes.

Another method of squash baking is to cut the squash in two crosswise, remove the seeds and strings and place in baking pan cut side down and bake for two hours or until soft in a very slow oven. Then scrape the squash from the shell, mash and season with butter, salt and pepper. Still another school believes that squash is best baked whole in the oven for about two hours or more then cut open, the seeds removed and the squash scraped seasoned and strained.

To steam squash, wash it, cut it in quarters and smaller squares, peel, remove the strings and seeds and steam until tender or cook in boiled salted water for 20 minutes or more. Drain and mash, adding ½ cup milk, 1 tbsp. butter and salt and pepper to 4 cups of squash. Milk may be omitted if you wish.

An ideal squash pie mixture is made by creaming ¼ cup butter with ½ cup sugar. To this add 1 whole egg and the yolk of another mixed with ¼ cup or more of sugar. Combine the two mixtures, add ½ tsp salt, ½ tsp. nutmeg, 1 cup cooked sieved squash and 1 cup top of milk. Pour in deep plate lined with rich pastry.

For delicious squash rolls soften 1 yeast cake in ¼ cup lukewarm water, add ½ cup scalded milk, ½ cup strained squash, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ cup melted butter and about 3 cups flour or enough to make a soft dough. Knead until very light and springy, cover, let stand in a warm place until double, turn out on floured board and roll until one inch thick, and set, side by side, in a pan. When light, bake about 20 minutes in a 400 F. oven. Brush over with beaten egg diluted with a little water, or sugar and water syrup, and put back in the oven for 2 minutes.

Any special recipes that you'd like for the holiday season? Remember, I'm here to be of service and it is a real pleasure.

Household Hints

A FEW DROPS of lemon juice added to the dough when making pastry will render it more digestible.

* * *

Aluminum saucepans that have become dirty or discolored can be cleaned quickly by applying warm water to which a generous squeeze of lemon juice has been added.

* * *

Rock ammonia, dissolved in boiling water, is excellent for removing moths from carpets. Use four ounces of the ammonia to every quart of water. Apply with a flannel, then go over the material with a very hot iron.

* * *

Tomatoes plunged into boiling water for a few minutes will peel easily and without waste.

* * *

When Army Mule Brays and Navy Goat "B-a-a-s" ↕ Best Laid Plans o' Mice and Men Gang Aft Agley

"Anybody's Game" in Service Duel, Today

Any team that could hold great Notre Dame to a 7 to 6 score, goal from touchdown in the very sunset session of the game deciding the issue by a hair-line margin, must be a great team. There is no doubt about the Army team that will throw out its battlefront against the Navy before a huge throng in Yankee Stadium this afternoon being a great team. Against it this year's Navy eleven which has been guilty of some very spotty football wouldn't, under ordinary football reasoning, be given the chance of a snowball in Hel-ena or, Handsome Harold in an Old Maids Home. But long, long ago football folks realized that anything could happen when Army meets Navy, just as when Harvard meets Yale. Supposedly mediocre Navy elevens have weighed anchor and beaten apparently great Army elevens before, and the boys from the banks of the Severn may pull another rabbit out of the bag today. When the Mule brays and the Goat b-a-a-a-s, prognostications of experts, gang aft agley.

Army has cause to remember Ingram, Navy's head coach, as bad medicine." It was Ingram or his brother, if memory serves us right, who "crossed" the Cadets with the first forward pass. We have a distinct remembrance of sitting in the middle of a flock of generals and admirals at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, way back in 1905 or 1906, and, while trying to keep one eye on the ball and the other on a brunette in Row K., Seat 44, who would have made Venus look like a dame with a wart on her nose, seeing Norton drop back for an apparent attempt to boot a field goal, only to shoot a forward pass which Ingram took over the Army earthworks for the touchdown that changed the bray of the Army Mule into the wail of a banshee.

George Underwood

Forward passes in those days were scarcer than pugnoses in Jerusalem.

You can bet your shirt, just like the Cadets and the Middies do, that Army isn't going to take any chance with a Navy Goat led on the field by an Ingram. Weather or conditions will not make any difference, either. The Army Mule proved a great mud horse in that moist meeting with Notre Dame in Chicago. But on wet days goats are particularly strong. Ever had a wet goat pass by to windward? Awful, simply awful! If the Navy Goat gets wet enough Army will have to don gas masks, as sure as you're born.

When Army meets Navy, this afternoon, things are going to happen, as the fellow out walking with his stenographer on Washington st. said when he spotted his wife. No one can predict with any certainty of accuracy just what will happen, except that regardless of who wins there will be a scrap which will make a meeting between two bobcats before breakfast seem tame.

A REG'LAR DONNYBROOK

Fight — that's one thing Army and Navy always does. No holts [illegible] protect yourself at all [illegible] brick you can get in [illegible] permissible. As we told [illegible] Army and Navy not [illegible] for Alma Mater and [illegible] Sammy, but [illegible] willing to bet their shirts and [illegible] for the rest of the winter.

Despite that great battle the gray coated striplings from the Plains gave the wonderful boys from South Bend Maj Sasse isn't counting any Army chickens before they're hatched today. The [illegible] Major was in a couple of distinct Army-Navy reverses, [illegible] if we recollect rightly. The last two meetings between the Army and Navy in 1926 and 1927 are fresh enough in the memories of the fans for them to realize that anything can happen when the Mule and the Goat meet head and rear on.

Army was favorite in 1926, but the 110,000 persons who thronged Soldiers Field, Chicago, the largest crowd to see a football game in America, saw the Middies rise to the occasion and hold the Army to a 21 to 21 tie. That was the first year Ingram coached on the Severn. Tom Hamilton, now backfield coach at Annapolis, kicked the point after touchdown which gave Navy the tie. The next year Red Cagle and Light Horse Harry Wilson were supposed would run riot over the Middies. But Army barely pulled out with a 12 to 9 victory. Army won, but the Goat scared the Mule out of several years' growth.

Condition is in favor of the Navy. The Army reached its physical peak against Notre Dame. Since then it has had a layoff. Navy has been "pointing" for today's game.

If you're of the superstitious kind you will stand with the Army, for Navy has suffered its "toughest luck" in New York. Of nine service games played in New York, Navy only won three.

Franklin field, Philadelphia, is Navy's favorite battleground. Navy considers Franklin field her "home" grounds. More Army-Navy games were played there than anywhere else, 14 in all. In addition to Philadelphia and New York service games were played at West Point, Annapolis, Chicago, Princeton and Baltimore.

Former Battles

That game at Princeton in 1905 was called on account of darkness with 10 minutes to go and the teams deadlocked at 6 to 6. Why not add that unplayed 10 minutes on for Charity's sake today?

The game in Baltimore is easy to recall. That was the game which Army won, 12 to 0 on four field goals, all off the big toe of Garbisch. Please, Mr. Compositor, don't spell it Garbage.

The first Army-Navy game was played on the Plains, West Point, in 1890. The players wore knit stocking caps. Navy's colors then were red and white. They later were changed to avoid conflict with the field artillery Army's original colors were black and orange. Now they are grey, gold and black, except when Navy changes them to black and blue. Ouch!

Although Franklin Field is considered Navy's "lucky field," the Middies didn't always win there. We recall seeing Charlie Daly, who jumped from Harvard to West Point, break the Navy's heart with a brilliant 95-yard run for a touchdown. The next year they played at Franklin Field again. Navy "covered" Daly so he did not break away on another 95-yard run, but they couldn't prevent Charley directing the Cadet offense with such wizardry that Navy was sunk by a top-heavy score.

Remember Charlie Daly? He was later fire commissioner here in Boston for a short while.

The teams were deadlocked in a scoreless tie until the last few minutes of play when Bob Kernan skirted Army's left flank and found only Daly, who played defensive back, between him and the goal line. Bob knew better than to attempt to dodge his old team mate. He straight-armed him with a left that knocked Charlie down for the count and finished a fifty yard run for a winning touchdown.

The Army and Navy Department seems to have a hunch that Navy is going to win, today. Anyway they have ordered Army back to the Point immediately after the game and have given the Middies a full night's leave in New York.

Won't it be orful, Agnes, if Navy gets licked and has nothing to celebrate?

E. Boston Teams in Charity Grid Game

A benefit football game will be held at World War Memorial Park tomorrow, Dec. 14, between the City Club of East Boston, Inc., and the Trojan A. C.

This is one of the series of events sponsored by the City Club of East Boston, Inc., to aid their Christmas Basket Fund for the needy of the district.

Army Team Is Pretty Near an All-America Eleven

New York, Dec. 13—Nineteen states, one territory, and the District of Columbia are represented by the 25 cadets and midshipmen who either will start or are being considered as probable starters in the Army-Navy football classic in the Yankee Stadium this afternoon.

Ed Herb, who shares with Bill Frentzel, of Danville, Ill., the choice as starting right halfback in the Army backfield, comes from Manila, Philippine Islands, where his father serves with the American forces. Pennsylvania has three representatives on the two teams, Illinois two and Wisconsin two.

"STRIB" IS NOW "CHAMPION"

Chicago, Dec. 13—Young Stribling defeated Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Ia., heavyweight, in a 10-round battle in the Chicago Stadium, winning the decision of the referee and judges.

Stribling won the fight because of his [illegible] boxing skill although Griffiths made a terrific battle all the way. There were no knockdowns, but Stribling slowed up Griffiths with a smashing body attack.

The decision which was unanimously agreed upon by the two judges and the referee, Ed Purdy may result in making Stribling the choice of the National Boxing Association as the heavyweight champion of the world.

Prior to the battle, Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the N. B. A., and chairman of the Illinois Athletic Commission, declared that Max Schmeling of Germany, the titleholder, had failed to defend within the prescribed six months limit, and that it was up to N. B. A. to name the winner of the Griffiths-Stribling bout as the association's titleholder.

Spanish Onions

Chicago—W. L. "Young" Stribling, Macon, Ga., outpointed Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux City, Ia. (10); Larry Johnson, Chicago, knocked out Jack Gagnon, Boston (6). Frank [illegible], Wilkesbarre, Pa., and Nattie Brown, Los Angeles, drew (8).

St. Louis—Jack Renault, Canada, outpointed Arthur De Kuh, New York (10).

LEARY HEADS MASS. COACHES

James B. Carroll of St. James' High in Haverhill, was elected vice-president, Jim Duffy of Jamaica Plain, treasurer, and Charles Linehan of Browne & Nichols, secretary.

An executive committee was also chosen. It is made up of James Shaw, Worcester; Ed Goodreau, Malden; Bill Joyce, Lynn Classical; Jim Mansfield, Haverhill; Harry Tilton, Boston Trade; Herbert Collins, Medford, and F. Marion Roberts, Brockton.

The district representatives for next year will be Charles Frollo, Arlington; Jimmy Liston, Lawrence; Jim MacDonald, Malden; Charles Foster, Rivers School; Charles Broderick, Amesbury; J. Leo Daley, English, and Herbert McDonough, Manchester, N. H.

Retiring President Bill Joyce opened the meeting. Dr. Joseph Burnett of Boston gave a talk on injuries to schoolboy athletes and circulated a questionnaire to be filled out and which will be turned over to Fred O'Brien for scrutiny.

Vic Kennard, Harvard, gave a talk on kicking and introduced a new device to aid in the timing of kicks. Joe McKenney, Boston College, gave a talk on various types of defenses, stressing the fact that a defense lies in knowing the ability of the opposition.

The members then went to the theater to see Rockne's football film and returned to the Hotel Commander for luncheon.

Battalino Wins From Kid Chocolate to Keep Title

By DAMON RUNYON

He successfully defended his title against Kid Chocolate of Cuba in 15 fierce rounds that had the crowd of 15,000 shrieking in excitement from gong to gong. The decision of the referee, Arthur Donovan, and the judges, Harold Barnes and George Kelly, was unanimous, although some of the customers let go with a few [illegible] cheers when the veteran announcer, Joe Humphreys, led Battalino from his corner and hoisted his gloved right hand.

The lithe, black Chocolate stood in his corner as if dazed by the decision and then wrinkled up his leathery little face in a good, hearty cry. His manager, Luis Gutierrez, shook his head sadly and led the little Cuban out of the corner and down the steps. They were both greatly disappointed, but Gutierrez had no comment to make on the decision.

The fight was the feature attraction of the annual boxing show for the benefit of the New York American Christmas [illegible] Fund, and the gross receipts at [illegible] stands were $7[illegible], the net being $66,[illegible], from which the fund that yearly provides the poor of the big town with a Christmas dinner will realize a good sum.

Battalino's Incessant Charge Won Him Victory

It was Battalino's incessant charge against the sparkling left hand of the clever Chocolate and Battalino's lunge from the first to the fifteenth round against the swinging right hand uppercut of Chocolate that won the fight for the little Italian from Connecticut. In his manner of attack he is a little throwback to the Battling Nelson of long ago.

Round after round he pressed forward, his body turned sideways, almost crab like, his arms folded across his leather-scarred features, taking Chocolate's best shots at long range to get inside and pound against the thin black body with both hands. The Cuban hit him with everything but the water bucket, as they say, but Battalino never backed up.

Wood Is First Harvard Grid Phi Beta Kappa Captain

Harvard will have next year its first Phi Beta Kappa football captain in history. When the lettermen of the Crimson gridiron squad chose W. Barry Wood, Jr., for their captain, they selected a youth whose deeds in the classroom have equalled his feats of the athletic field.

Wood has played a prominent part in Harvard football for the past two autumns. He directed the play of both the 1929 and 1930 Crimson elevens, and his generalship, forward passing, and punting have proved important factors in whatever success Harvard has had on the football field during that period.

NEW RULES TO CUT AVERAGES

This radical change in baseball rules means that a player who hits a fly ball that advances a runner after it is caught will be credited with a time at bat.

A sacrifice will now consist only of an intentional bunt. It was estimated [illegible] the rule will cut the batting averages of major league players on an average of 12 points.

It is the averages of sluggers like Babe Ruth and Al Simmons that this rule will affect most.

A vigorous attempt was made to have a sacrifice fly count as a sacrifice only when a man scores from third base, but this was voted down after [illegible].

$85,329 IS RECEIVED IN 1930

Professional boxing has turned over $508,581 to the State of Massachusetts during the ten years and three months it has been legalized here, according to the annual report of the Boxing Commission which was released today.

During 1930 boxing has turned over $85,329 to the State. Of this amount $52,361 was received from the 5 per cent State tax and $32,967 from fees.

In 1929 the State received $9[illegible] of which $[illegible] was from the 5 per cent tax and $26,839 from fees.

There has been a falling off in the amount received from the 5 per cent tax due to smaller attendances, while the amount received from fees has increased as a result of the larger number of boxers, managers and others licensed.

Calls Attention to Lack of Talent

[illegible] in a low stage [illegible] chief among which is the lack of outstanding contenders for high honors in the boxing world and to the [illegible] of new material for boxing in the minor classes.

[illegible] resulted in a lack of interest by the public which has somewhat [illegible] the attendance at exhibitions.

The commission adds that despite the business depression the amount of money received by the State for [illegible] paid in [illegible] legislative [illegible] part of [illegible] in the press [illegible] and [illegible] submit its [illegible]

[illegible] that [illegible] when [illegible] boxer is de[illegible] the money is turned over to the state treasurer.

The report sets forth money is still due from the Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion. It is believed that the commission refers to the purses of Jimmy Slattery and Pete Latzo which were declared forfeited following their bout at the Boston Garden at a Crosscup-Pishon post show.

Visiting boxers debarred from State, 832; visiting managers debarred from State, 31; visiting seconds debarred from State, 17; special and amateur exhibitions authorized, 304; special and amateur exhibitions cancelled, 9; special and amateur exhibitions held, 2[illegible].

BEATTIE WILL HELP BRUINS

Jack Beattie, former Vancouver and Pacific Coast League star, and presently playing in the Springfield regimentals, will join the Bruins probably on Tuesday night when the Rossmen play their first home game with the ambitious Detroit Falcons who are causing plenty of trouble in the National League.

By agreement entered into yesterday between President Charles F. Adams of the Bruins and President William Carey of Madison Square Garden Corporation, the Jerwa-Beattie dispute between the [illegible] was settled [illegible] Jerwa [illegible] Rangers and Bruins get Beattie.

Beattie, a center, was the second leading scorer in the Pacific Coast League a year ago, getting 12 goals and nine assists, one point below Brown of Seattle. He will be a welcome addition to the Bruins squad which already is strong, while Jerwa can be expected to greatly bolster the defense of the Rangers.

The Bruins are in Toronto tonight for a game with the Maple Leafs and they will have another chance to go into a first place tie with the Chicago Blackhawks. The Bruins dropped a game to Americans in New York on Thursday and will meet [illegible] opposition from the fast Toronto team.

dead. Bowman was smeared be- [illegible] quick kick and the ball sailed over the Navy's safety man's head. It was downed by Messinger on Navy's 21-yard line.

Kirn hit the Army's left side for four yards, but Gannon barely made a yard around right end. Hagberg punted poorly for the Middies and the ball slanted diagonally across the field, Army recovering on Navy's 45-yard stripe. Stecker drove through for three yards but was hurt and Army too time out.

A new set of Cadets warmed up.

SECOND PERIOD

The Army sent in eight replacements, including an entire new backfield composed of MacWilliam, Herb, Glattly and Fields. The new ends were Mallow and King.

Fields then punted to Kirn, who took the ball on the run and galloped to his 34-yard line. Gannon on a reverse, went a yard, but "Bullet Lou" Kirn bumped into a stone wall at Army's left tackle, Price.

Gannon on a fake buck, raced back and passed over the line, but Hagberg missed the ball and it was grounded. Bowstrom then got off a beautiful punt to MacWilliam, who returned from his own 22-yard line to the 44.

Glattly and Herb advanced three yards in two bucks, and Navy called time out to make a few repairs.

Fields threw a long pass down the alley, but Kirn grabbed the ball out of the melee and it was Navy's ball on their own 30-yard mark. Gannon got a cut back, gained five yards, but Kirn again butted into a stone wall at the line, Price bringing him down.

MacWILLIAMS FUMBLES

The Navy interference failed to click and Gannon got only a yard. Bowstrom's punt to MacWilliam, who fumbled on his own 34-yard mark, but recovered as a swarm of Navy tacklers smothered him. MacWilliam was tackled behind the line by Steffanides for a four-yard loss.

Fields fumbled but recovered at the line and then punted to Kirn, who was downed in his tracks on Navy's 38-yard line.

So far it was a tight defensive battle, Navy tried to open things up with a pass, but Johnny Gannon threw widly to Hagberg, as the latter was out in the open and it was incomplete. Kirn slashed through center for two yards. Gannon was stopped on a reverse and Bowstrom punted to Army's 20-yard line. It was downed a few yards from the sideline by a Navy player but the referee moved it out in Army's behalf.

NEW NAVY WENT IN

In the backfield Hurley replaced Kirn, and Williams replaced Bauer. Another Gannon-Hagberg pass was incomplete after a line plunge. Herb knocked down Gannon's wide pass and Navy was penalized the customary five yards. Bowstrom punted out of bounds on Army's 31-yard line.

HERB MAKES GAIN

Fields and Herb, in three rushes, gained seven yards and Fields then placed a nice punt on Navy's 21-yard line, where the Middies allowed it to be downed by their rivals. Carver replaced MacWilliam for Army at quarterback.

Torgersen went in at Navy's left end for Steffandis. Gannon on a cutback broke through the left side of Army's line for seven yards. Hurley picked up a yard but Gannon fell as he tried another cut back dash and failed to gain.

Bowstrom punted to Army's 37-yard line. Carver and Herb failed to puncture the Navy line for more than five yards in three plays and Fields punted. Williams, Navy quarter, returned only a few yards before being forced out on his 21-yard line.

Gannon was thrown for a two-yard loss as the half ended with the game still scoreless.

THIRD PERIOD

The Army lineup at the outset of the third period was same as starting cast with exception of Lazar at center, King at left end. Navy's lineup was same as at start.

Army kicked off and Bauer ran the ball back 10 yards to Navy's 32-yard line. Three line plays gained barely a yard altogether and Bowstrom punted to Bowman who was downed on his 33-yard mark.

Stecker hit the same spot for six yards, being stopped by the Navy secondary. Bowman shot off his right tackle for another first down on Navy's 14-yard stripe and the Midshipmen took time out.

TUTTLE HURT.

Hagberg also needed some first aid treatment before play was resumed. A low pass spoiled the next Army play and on a short pass, Stecker to Frentzel, the latter tripped over his own interference and there was no gain. Stecker hurled a long pass to King, but it was batted down by Kirn.

Frantzel then kicked out of bonds on Navy's 24-yard line. Navy fumbled on a double pass and Tschirgi, who had replaced Gannon at left half, barely recovered for an eight-yard loss. Bowstorm's punt was hurried and it was downed on Navy's 46-yard as the Cadets swung into attacking formation again. Army was penalized 15 yards for holding, setting the ball back on the Cadet 41-yard line.

Bowman broke around his own right end after taking a short pass from Stecker and he was nearly away when he was forced out of bounds on Navy's 46-yard line.

Stecker picked up three yards, but on the next play Bowman was smeared behind the line for a two-yard loss after grabbing a pass from Stecker. Frentzel got off a beautiful punt to "Coffin Corner" and Kirn was tackled on his own five-yard line, but the play was called back, Navy being penalized five yards for offside.

TUTTLE RECOVERS FUMBLE

Stecker's pass to Bowman was incomplete. Stecker then fumbled as he broke through the line and Tuttler recovered for Navy on the latter's 40-yard line.

Tschirgi slanted off his right tackle for six yards, then on a cut back dashed to Army's 45-yard line for a first down. The next rush failed and Bauer fumbled on a reverse, Suarez recovering for Army on the latter's 46-yard mark. The Cadets took time out.

Stecker raced wide to the right for a gain of only one yard and Kilday ran the ball out of bounds on Army's 48-yard line. Stecker threw a long pass down the middle, but it was knocked down by Kirn. Frentzel punted out of bounds on Navy's 20-yard line.

TSCHIRGI SPILLED

Tschirgi was spilled on a reverse play without gain, but Kirn slipped through a hole in Army's left side for six yards. He tried the same spot, but found it plugged up and Bowstrom went back to renew the punting duel. His kick to Bowman was returned six yards to Army's 44-yard line.

Stecker threw a pass to Frentzel but the latter fumbled after almost completing the play. Stecker ran wide for a first down on Navy's 43-yard line.

The Cadets were [illegible] of drive [illegible] Kilday [illegible] off [illegible] first down on Navy's 31-yard line. Frentzel was spilled by Tuttle for a yard loss on a reverse and Referee O'Brien then penalized Army 15 yards for holding. It put the ball on Navy's 46-yard line. Once again, Stecker tried the air, but his toss to Ed Messinger was incomplete. End of period.

Score—Army 0, Navy 0.

FOURTH PERIOD

Starting the final period, Stecker finally connected, and Bowman, taking a short pass, ran to Navy's 25-yard line. The play was called back, however, and Navy penalized five yards.

On the next attempted pass Stecker's throw was incomplete and this time Army was penalized 15 yards for holding. This forced Army to punt and Frentzel's kick was caught by Kirn on Navy's 18-yard line, where he was downed hard.

Kirn was thrown for a three-yard loss and the Middies again called time.

From his own seven-yard line, Bowstrom punted to Bowman and the Army quarterback was spilled in his tracks on Navy's 49-yard line by Steffaides. Army lost 13 yards when signals apparently were missed and the center's pass went out of bounds on Army's 36-yard line.

Frentzol punted to Kirn, who was tackled by Lazar on Navy's 29-yard line. Gannon's interference bogged down and he was thrown for a loss but on an offside play they were penalized five yards. Bowstrom kicked to Bowman, who fought his way through three tacklers before being downed.

ARMY SCORES

Stecker broke off his own left tackle on the first play straight-armed two tacklers and outran two more as he raced 67 yards for a touchdown. It was a spectacular play. Froshaus sent in to try the kick for extra point, missed the uprights.

Score—Army 6; Navy 0.

Army kicked off with a revamped lineup and Navy punted after failing to gain in two plays from its 26-yard mark. Army from its 36-yard line, opened a line attack but gained only seven yards in three plays.

Stecker punted to Kirn, who tried a surprise lateral pass to Williams, substitute Navy quarterback, who fell as he made the catch and was down on Navy's 23-yard line.

Kirn picked up a yard at center. Gannon passed and an Army back just missed intercepting it. It was incomplete and Bowstrom punted to Army's 37-yard line, where Bowman fumbled and Byng, Navy right end, recovered.

Driving hard to capitalize the break Kirn made three yards and Gannon passed to Byng who caught the bell and made first down on Army's 25-yard mark.

Byng came back to hurl a left handed pass, but Bowman knocked the thrown down and Navy was penalized five yards. Gannon's pass to Byng was incomplete as the latter let the ball squeeze from his grasp and Army got the ball on downs on Navy's 35-yard line after another five-yard penalty had been imposed.

Yankee Battery Men to Report Feb. 20

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, has ordered his pitchers and catchers to report to spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 20. Previously McCarthy had planned to have the whole team report at St. Petersburg March 1.

$600,000 FOR CHARITY

Out there, too, was "Al" Smith and party, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and party, Mayor "Jimmy" Walker and party, Knute Rockne, coach of Notre Dame, the Yale and Harvard football teams and a host of other notables.

President Hoover would have been here, too, had not urgent official business detained him in Washington. For this was more than a mere football game. It was an event staged for a worthy cause for the purpose of alleviating the victims of the current depression and the President had given his warm approval of the game, the first played between the Army and the Navy since they broke relations in 1927.

SEATS COME HIGH

The President was represented here today by his military aide, Lieut.-Col. Campbell Hodges. The President had autographed a football which will be auctioned off between halves to the highest bidder for a mere $10,000 or so. Everybody was giving for this game. The best seats along the 50-yard line went for $50 apiece and nobody begrudged the money.

MAJOR-MINOR DRAFT WAR MAY PROVE BENEFICIAL TO BRAVES AND SOX

By JOE CASHMAN

Joe Cashman

If the fighting lasts long enough the national game in general is bound to suffer somewhat but the second division clubs in the majors which include both our Boston outfits, bid fair to profit.

The chief reason for the failure of the Sox and Braves and other lowly clubs to get out of the depths in recent years was their inability to successfully bid against rich clubs for the outstanding Class AA players.

The Yanks, Athletics, Cubs, Giants and other prosperous first-division outfits had the money to buy all the promising material and they stayed at or near the top of the heap while their poorer brethren had to be content with second class rookies and never had a chance to do any climbing.

But now, with the three Class AA circuits, which have the majority of the classy young players, barred from further dealings with the majors, the weak big league clubs have an equal chance to pick up the best of the available prospects.

Big Leagues Dislike to Take Class A Players

Of course, the rich clubs can still outbid the poor clubs for talent in Class A leagues and circuits of lower classification, but they aren't likely to, for players below Class AA are too big a risk on which to gamble much money.

And even if the rich clubs do make money talk and get the most promising of the available young performers, they will have no guarantee that their purchases will turn out any more valuable than those of poorer clubs.

For there isn't one player in a hundred in a circuit below Double A that is fit to step right in and play big league ball and the worst looking players in Class A [illegible] lower leagues eventually develop into big league stars as often as the most promising performers in these circuits.

The big majority of the players in the bushes that can now do business with the majors are two or three years away from fast company class, and all the poorer big league clubs need to grab off the best of them is a little luck.

The lowly clubs also have a better line on these players than the successful outfits. Knowing they had little chance of getting any of the Class AA [illegible] second division [illegible] of the [illegible] Class A and [illegible] the pennant contenders paid little attention to this group of performers.

As a result, the lowly clubs know facts about these players that it will take the leading clubs a season or two to discover and by then the information may be useless.

The powerful clubs, naturally, want to remain powerful and when they begin to realize that their money can no longer guarantee strength they will begin to cry for peace and will probably have their way.

The best thing that could happen to big league ball would be for the weak clubs to become strong and the strong clubs to become weak for a change, but those that are successful can't see it, and you can bet that they won't stand for it if they can prevent it.

QUINN SEEKING TO MAKE TRADE

New York, Dec 13—President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox stayed over on the scene of the recent baseball meetings today in an effort to polish off a deal with Washington for a veteran player. After several hours of conversation the proposition was left suspended in the air. A decision may be expected any moment.

Quinn also had a conference with Charley Berry, the big catcher of the Sox. It seems Charley had a year-around opportunity thrown his way to handle athletics at a big college or university. He was to coach both football and baseball.

This is what he wanted to talk over with President Quinn. Charley wanted to know whether it would be wise for him to give up big league ball and devote all his time to college coaching and to the upper [illegible] of sports there.

Quinn [illegible] Charley [illegible] had done good work, better [illegible] than ever, this past season. Quinn [illegible] outspoken in [illegible] that Berry make his own decisions.

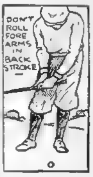
Quinn's answer that such a decision would depend on how the Red Sox were fixed in regard to games won and lost, and also how the catching department was fixed when football time approached.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher



DON'T ROLL FORE ARMS IN BACK STROKE

There is a strategy in good golf which should inform you that of all golf shots the one most essential to a good game is the little shot around the green, and next to it is the putt of four or five feet—the kind of a putt which you know you should run into the cup seven or eight times in 10 tries. You should be master of both these shots so that if the little pitch or run-up is not quite close enough, you still can run it in and save the stroke. Good golfing strategy should impel you to adopt fixed ways of making little shots around the green. Either pitch all of them or run all of them—do one or the other. In shifting from one to the other you impose upon yourself the necessity for being skilful in either, whereas to be really skilful with one is quite an accomplishment. Start by determining to pitch them all using the [illegible] or mashie niblick, and consider that any shot from any point beyond just off the edge of the putting carpet is a pitch. Fixing this policy and sticking to it will be advantageous to you, as I shall show you in articles to follow.

RADIO Personalities

Columbia has just added two new stations—WACO, Waco, Texas, and WTAQ, Eau Claire, Wis., making a total of 76 stations on the chain. Columbia now claims to be the largest broadcasting chain in the world . . . When GRAHAM McNAMEE leaves on one of his broadcasting trips he doesn't always know when he will be able to return to N. Y. as unexpected things frequently force him to alter his plans. So when he says on the air that he would like to have an oyster stew it is not a signal for fans to send him barrels of oysters as they often do, but a code message to his wife that he will be unable to reach home on scheduled time . . . CHARLES FINAN and PAUL WINKOPP, the NBC Snoop and Peep, attended Columbia U. together, where they were the big song and dance team of the institution . . . JOAN BARRETT, CBS interior decorator, asks Santa for a cursing parrot for Xmas, preferably one that knows seven languages . . . "TINY" BERMAN one of the Merry Madcaps of WTIC, is conceded the biggest musician in radiodom. He weighs 365 lbs. and towers 6½ ft. above the ground.

Each of Three Networks Has Legislative Address Scheduled

Three addresses by Washington [illegible] on the [illegible] radio program. Two of them will discuss the World Court, one from the standpoint of a Democrat and the other from the Republican angle. The other address will concern the [illegible] problems which confront the nation.

Over a NBC-WEAF network at 7.45 Senator C. C. Dill, Democrat, of Washington will give an analysis of the World Court. Senator Dill's remarks concerning the court and United States participation in its operation will be heard from coast to coast.

From WNAC at 9.30 the same [illegible] will be debated. Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas, Republican and staunch proponent of the Court, will speak on "Why the United States Should Join the World Court." The negative side of the question will be discussed next Saturday by a speaker not yet chosen.

Radical changes in legislative attitude toward five national problems will be advanced as a relief program for current distress by Albert Ottinger, New York Republican leader, over NBC-WJZ network at 7.30. "Needed—A Doctor: Five Remedies for Present Conditions," is the subject of the analysis. Ottinger is expected to suggest decided alteration of the laws and policies affecting prohibition, the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, foreign indebtedness, income tax rates and tariff reductions.

VELMA RAWLS, pianist, will be heard for the first time over the air tomorrow afternoon at 4:45 through WBZ-WBZA, during the broadcast of the program "Your Eyes."

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

Today seems like an excellent time to serve you a small portion of verbal radio hash; sort of left-overs from the week's daily courses which for lack of space could not find a place on our menu before.

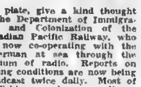
A most interesting tid-bit has come to us through the medium of INS, and we advise long-distance radio fans to make a note of it. In order to meet an increasing demand the electrical equipment division of the Department of Commerce at Washington, has just completed a special kilocycle list of all North American radio stations, excepting those in the United States, Alaska and Porto Rico, which are listed by the radio division.

Frequency, wave length, call letters, power and city, country or province of location are shown for each station. The electric equipment division is now ready to distribute this list to radio fans throughout the country. The list will, of course, be free; why not write for it?

A very important step has just been taken by RCA Communications, Inc., who announces through the INS the opening of a new circuit between San Francisco and Shanghai, one of the longest in the world-wide network of radio links which now connect the United States with more than 30 countries in Europe, Africa, and South and Central America. It is a 6121 mile leap from San Francisco to Shanghai, approximately twice the width of the Atlantic ocean.

Ten young hearts are beating excitedly and ten young minds are centered upon the hour of 9.15 tomorrow night, when in one of the great studios of the NBC on Fifth ave., New York, there will take place the final auditions of the Atwater Kent Foundation contest, at which time the five prize-winners will be chosen. There are ten finalists to compete, chosen by elimination contests and representing five sections of the United States; they are the surviving competitors among thousands who have given auditions since last May. The winners in this final audition will receive very substantial cash prizes and music scholarships. A chain tieup will carry the finalists' voices to a large number of stations.

When you are busily employed disengaging the bones from the flesh of your kippered herring in the morning or lovingly caressing the bloater on your breakfast plate, give a kind thought to the Department of Immigration and Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who are now co-operating with the fisherman at sea through the medium of radio. Reports on fishing conditions are now being broadcast twice daily. Most of the fishing vessels carry radio receiving sets with which they pick up the government reports, which among other things informs them where and how fish are running.



WHY NOT?
WAKE UP! YOU'VE GOT A BITE!

If we may be given permission to express a personal liking, we shall state that we are among a great many who thoroughly enjoy band music; in fact we really prefer it to orchestrations—which is admitting, of course, that we are plebeian.

URGE BUSINESS TO GET BUSY

Throughout the present economic depression, David Malkiel of the David Malkiel Advertising Agency, has counselled advertisers to keep going full steam ahead, to employ as many competent employes as possible, to double ordinary effort and to spend more money advertising in the newspapers in order to inspire confidence in a quick return to normalcy.

(Photo by Purdy)

Malkiel has just expanded his advertising agency, has increased his group of advertising specialists and has moved to a new, extensive suite of offices in the Metropolitan Building.

Mr. Malkiel says that the business depression is more or less a mental attitude.

"A man is what he thinks he is, and a business is what its leaders think it is. Business is as good as what you make it. Don't worry about your competitor; he's probably sleepless worrying about you. There is always good business for the fellow who puts all he has into the battle, just when the other fellow is about to throw up the sponge."

Port of Boston

By JAMES J. DELANEY.

Science, in giving to those that sail the seas an electric eye that sees and an electric ear that hears, has given to the Boston fishing fleet one of the greatest instruments of progress it has known in its history.

Captains of fishing schooners and officials at the Fish Pier state that several members of the fishing fleet are using the fathometer, which has been in use for some time on commercial ships, for getting ocean depths.

Three of the fishing fleet now using fathometers are the Gemma trawler; the Amherst and the Dartmouth.

It gives the depth of the ocean by an electric dial similar to a radio. It proves invaluable in enabling ships to stay on fruitful fishing grounds when a storm comes up by knowing the depth of the locality. It saves gear by informing fishermen of rough bottoms and keeps the trawls operating at the proper depth, despite wind, tides and currents.

MALAFIDE SEAMAN

A search for liquor by United States Customs special duty squad failed to turn up any intoxicating spirits but did unearth a pretty girl set down on the records as a "malafide seaman," and ordered to stay on the ship, and some [illegible] cards in the quarters of one of the crew of the Scheldelijn, Belgian motorship, which arrived here Thursday. She is being detained, awaiting docking orders, anchored in the channel. Booked as a "stewardess," a pretty girl who stated she was Mrs. Basil Jonescu, wife of one of the officers, later admitted that she was really Miss Joanna Coppeus, 21, of Antwerp. She stated that she intended to marry Jonescu, whose sweetheart she has been for five years, as soon as he received his captain's papers and got a ship.

Steady Upturn Seen by Head of Wilson & Co.

President of Byllesby Also Cheerful on Outlook for Business

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

Chicago, Dec. 13—First impressions received here are that Chicago is distinctly less doleful financially and business wise than New York. Several Chicagoans have remarked, exactly as visitors from the West have remarked, that they found New York recently so depressing that they were glad to get home.

All of which must not be interpreted as meaning that Chicago is flooded with sunshine. It does mean, however, that leading citizens here are exhibiting more courage and faith than are most of our New York magnates.

* * *

"When we desire to ascertain the true strength of a building we look first to the foundation because we know that when the basic structure is strong and sound the building itself is also very apt to be strong and sound and safe.

"And so it seems to me when considering the country's business structure we should look to the foundation. To my mind it is [illegible]

"I am of the opinion that we have now passed through, and have behind us, the worst phases of the depression. The future, I think, will see a steady, healthy upturn in business which, while not being sudden or phenomenal, will, nevertheless, be all the more sound, stable and permanent. In short, I am an optimist, and cannot but feel conservatively optimistic about the business future of our country."

* * *

John J. O'Brien, president of H. M. Byllesby & Company, who control vast utility properties, including Standard Gas & Electric, tells me:

"Standard's total kilowatt output for ten months ended Oct. 31 was 1.9 per cent ahead of last year. We have not let any men go nor have we cut any salaries nor reduced our force in any way. This year our budget calls for an expenditure of $74,900,000.

"Things have begun to pick up a little. Our managers all over the country have sent in their estimates of next year's earnings and the consensus of their judgment is that we shall have an increase of four and half million."

* * *

"From the studies I have made throughout our territory it seems quite clear that the major depression through which we have been passing has about run its course and that we may look forward to improved business conditions in 1931, as a whole, compared to 1930. My own judgment is that we will not see any marked improvement during the first six months, but by the latter half of 1931 our people will have come to a full realization that America has not gone to pieces; that it has boundless opportunities to continue its development of natural resources and that its future, industrially and economically, is assured."

* * *

"Some of us within the construction industry regard winter planning for spring construction as urgently needed. This opportunity applies not only to a few possible newly contemplated improvements, but particularly to many normal improvements which have been in prospect for months; it applies to construction money that will be spent anyway, but that can be made just as easily available in April and May as in June or August. Effectiveness of the spring drive on unemployment and pessimism will depend largely upon the promptness with which 1931 projects can actually be started.

Wheat Is Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Dec. 13—Wheat closed heavy today at yesterday's final to 2¼ cents lower. Corn, 1-1¼ cents off; oats, 1⅛-1½ cents down, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

United Shoe Machinery Corporation

The Directors of this Corporation have declared a dividend of 37½ cents per share on the Preferred capital stock. They have also declared a dividend of 62½ cents per share on the Common capital stock. The dividends on both Preferred and Common stock are payable January 5, 1931 to stockholders of record at the close of business December 16, 1930.

CHARLES G. BANCROFT, Treasurer.

STEADYING OF PRICES SEEN AS AT HAND

By FRANK H. MELOON

President T. B. Macaulay of Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, who aroused international discussion a few weeks ago by suggesting huge government purchases of bonds, declares the buying of government bonds by the Federal Reserve banks is today the most hopeful indication that commodity price stabilization is near.

* * *

U. S. Senator Henrik Shipstead in the current issue of the Magazine of Wall Street has something to say about Federal Reserve buying of government securities. He states:

"I attribute the inflation, the counter deflation of which we are now suffering, to the stimulation of security prices, started by the Federal Reserve Board when it reduced rediscount rates in 1924. Federal Reserve credit has mostly benefited—or shall we say injured?—the stock market.

"The great speculative boom was caused by the policy of the Federal Reserve Board, which in 1924 actually purchased a billion dollars' worth of government securities, thus turning loose a flood of money that was largely absorbed in speculation."

* * *

If everyone agreed about the Federal Reserve Board, there would be no necessity for the Senator Glass inquiry. Opinion in State Street is well split as to whether even the inquiry is needed.

* * *

Mighty is industry. Even the [illegible] at Bellows Falls, Vt., were unable to close the paper mills, we are told, because their owners declared they would leave the town if not permitted to run continuously. By the way, a mill that can run continuously in recent years is deserving of a niche in the industrial Hall of Fame.

* * *

Americans, led by Mr. Hoover, before he became President, objected to the limitation of the rubber crop, which forced up the price of that commodity until production outside the area of agreement broke it down. But the Department of Agriculture now advises farmers to restrict wheat and cotton planting to avoid over-production, which most of us consider a move in the right direction. Meanwhile the rubber raisers are seeking to put through a new restriction pact.

* * *

The tin producers, through a curtailment pact claim to have saved the industry from ruin. The copper miners have arranged for sane curtailment. Cuba and Java agree on reducing the growth of the sweet cane.

* * *

In the rubber-producing areas there will be considerable likely over-production soon as a direct result of the initial curtailment. This led a number of the big companies to plant large tracts. It takes several years for the rubber trees to grow to production, and much has happened since the planting from which stockholders at the time their money was spent hoped so much.

If brokers can be arrested for selling issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange, our laws are plainly in need of speedy amendment. The big stock exchange's listing requirements are very much more thorough and exacting than those for registration of stock in this commonwealth. No need appears for raising Bay State requirements, however, as the purposes of registration and stock exchange listing are distinct.

Curb Market Off to New Bottoms

New York, Dec. 13—A persistent outpouring of selling orders that showed virtually no interruption throughout the two hours of today's week-end session on the curb market forced all sections of the list sharply lower, with most issues setting new low marks for the year or longer.

American Gas & Electric was in the van of the reaction in the utility group, slumping 5 points. Electric Bond & Share showed a 2-point loss, while new lows were established by Associated Gas & Electric A, American & Foreign Power warrants and United Light & Power A.

Bond Market Has Slight Recessions

New York, Dec. 13—Support was locking in the Bond Market today and domestic obligations resumed their decline. Buying demand which appeared yesterday to force an upturn in a few domestic issues appeared to have been satisfied and most of the sales today were at prices under the previous close.

General Theaters

Statement of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., as of June 30, 1930, shows total assets were $10,101,481 and current liabilities $8,388,861.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

"We advise purchase of the securities of the outstanding companies of this country. We still do not think that all one's funds should be used up at this time, but it is certainly conservative to use at least a portion now, and on a scale down. Reserve purchasing power should be maintained to take advantage of possible further opportunities next year."

Earnings Reports Comparisons Made

	Since Oct. 1	Now
Increased earnings	250	..
Decreased earnings	424	1
Unchanged dividends	795	14
Increased dividends	78	2
Decreased dividends	55	1
Omitted dividends	77	2

New Lows Appear for Favorites

U. S. Steel market bellwether, was not the only issue today to drop to a new low. With numerous issues around the bottom prices of 1930, only a fractional change is needed in many cases to record a new. A rollcall of the stocks breaking through to new low ground would include many of the favorites in the steel, oil, copper, gas and electric light, power, equipment and railroad shares. The gain in unfilled steel orders means nothing less than increased operations later on.

Heavy Foreign Selling in "Jersey"

Heavy liquidation in Standard Oil of New Jersey is principally for the account of foreign interests. It is understood that a block of more than 20,000 shares of "Jersey" was sold for this account. In addition, considerable professional selling also is apparent in Standard of New Jersey due to the unfavorable conditions prevalent in the oil industry. Over-production of crude oil continues to add to the cares of the oil trade and efforts to curtail production are not having much effect. Reports are current, however, that further attempts will be made to bring the volume of oil production more closely in line with the indicated demand.

BOSTON STOCK PRICES AT NEW LOWS

A wave of selling sent several issues to new 1930 lows in an active short session on the Boston Stock Exchange today. An avalanche of selling on the New York Exchange had a lowering effect on local board shares.

New Haven sagged over a point to a new low at 74. Westfield and Venezuela Mexican dropped to fresh lows.

Torrington was 2 points lower at 43. Eastern Steamship first preferred dipped 1¼ to 96 and Brown & Co. preferred was down 3 points to 56.

North & South America Corporation dipped nearly a point to a new low. Nash, Anaconda and General Electric also sold in new low territory.

Losses of a point or more were recorded for Jenkins Television, Hathaway preferred, First National Stores, Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred and Atchison.

Edison sold 2 points lower to 238, American Telephone dropped 2⅜ to 177⅞, and Chicago Junction preferred was down 2¼ to 100.

NEW LOWS ARE SET IN WALL ST. TRADING

New York, Dec. 13—The short session of the New York Stock Exchange today saw numerous new lows set in rather active trading.

U. S. Steel, American Telephone and other prominent issues broke through recent resistance points. Numerous losses ranged from 1 to 5 points, with a few wider and the list as a whole reached a new low since 1927.

SALES 1,950,000

The market sold off rather sharply in the first half hour, met support for a time, but sank further in the last half hour. Sales for the two-hour session aggregated 1,950,000 shares.

U. S. Steel touched a new minimum at 136⅜, and closed at 136½, off 2⅜. American Can dropped 4 to 107, also a new minimum. American Telephone touched 178⅛, a fresh bottom, and closed at 178⅜, off about 2. North American lost 2⅜, but held well above its 1930 minimum.

COTTON REPORT POOR

A further drop in cotton futures, reaching the lowest since 1915, was in response to the Census Bureau's November consumption report, showing 414,887 bales, a crop of nearly 30,000 from October.

This was disappointing, in view of the marked improvement in the textile industry which had been noted in September and October. Furthermore, the Far East, a large consumer of cotton, is again troubled by the decline in silver to new low levels.

The wheat market opened quiet and steady, but selling soon developed, in response to heaviness in Liverpool and Winnipeg, and in sympathy with cotton and stocks. Strong support appeared for near months, but July reached a new low for the season.

A. E. Phills, former president of the Canadian Banking Association, issued a reassuring statement in Winnipeg, saying that advances banks have made to the grain trade, including the Canadian pool, are amply secured and that there would be no forced liquidation.

The weekly mercantile reviews were moderately cheerful, indicating that the volume of retail trade, while restricted in spots by weather and local conditions, compares favorably with last year.

Steel mill operations in the Youngstown area are estimated for next week at about 40 per cent of capacity, against 43 last week.

NEW DIVIDENDS ARE DECLARED

Cotton Lower in New York Market

New York, Dec. 13—Cotton futures today closed easy, 18 to 25 points lower; December, 9.45; January, 9.51. New contracts—December, 9.45; January, 9.53-58; March, 9.83-85; May, 10.10-12; July, 10.26-28; October, 10.50. Spot quiet; middling 9.60.

Candy Co. Has Increased Profit

ADVICE TO INVESTORS IS FREE

Before you buy or sell stocks or bonds, you ought to secure unbiased expert advice. Send your investment inquiries with stamp to Frank H. Meloon, Financial Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. All replies made by mail direct.

ONE DIVIDEND

A. S., Newton—I own 25 shares United Corporation at 49 and 25 at 32. What is your opinion of it?

Ans.—Though United Corporation occupies an important position in the public utility field, the common stock is a speculation. An initial dividend of 50 cents a share was distributed October 1, but this payment was not designated as quarterly. From January 7 to December 31, 1929, net income was equivalent to 49 cents a share; from January 1 to June 14, 1930, 22 cents a share. At recent levels you have a paper loss of about $1000. No one can forecast future prices.

CAN POY DVIDENDS

L. L., Needham—For investment I bought 22 shares American Telephone and Telegraph at 200. What do you think of it?

Ans.—American Telephone and Telegraph can point to an enviable record of earnings and dividends. Payments at various rates have been distributed for more than 46 years; current $9 rate from third quarter of 1921. In the past 12 years stockholders have been offered additional stock at an attractive price. For nine months ended September 30, earnings were $8.14 a share; in full year 1929 $12.87 a share, compared with $12.11 in 1928 and $11.76 in 1927. At the price you paid the yield was 4½ per cent. Inasmuch as you bought for income, you can afford to disregard fluctuations.

City of Boston
Transit Department
December 10, 1930.

Henry C. Attwill, Chairman,
Department of Public Utilities,
167 State House, Boston, Mass.
Dear Sir:—

By direction of the Board and in accordance with the provisions of chapter 341 of the Acts of 1925, as amended by chapter 304 of the Acts of 1930, entitled "An Act Providing for the Elimination of the Crossing at Grade at Governor Square in the city of Boston by Street Railway Cars using the Boylston Street Subway," I submit for the approval of your Board a plan numbered 17,263 entitled "City of Boston—Transit Department, Plan showing alterations in and extensions to the Boylston Street Subway authorized by chapter 304 of the Acts of 1930," dated December 9, 1930 (altering Plan No. 17134, dated June 12, 1930).

Yours very truly,
(Signed) T. F. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Upon the foregoing petition, the Commission of the Department of Public Utilities will hold a public hearing at its hearing-room, 166 State House, Boston, on Thursday, December 18, 1930, at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon.

By order of the Department,
ALLAN BROOKS,
Administrative Secretary.
December 11, 1930.

Man's Best Friend Fire

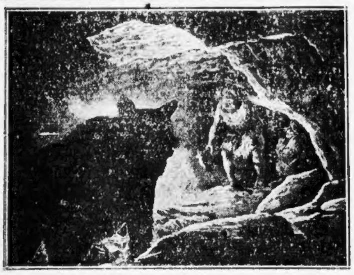
Copyright, 1930



FIRE, GUARDIAN AND SERVANT OF MAN

We warm our hands, strike a match, turn on the electric light, throw wood or coal on the fire, and think rarely of the blessings that fire has brought to man. It has been his great protection, his priceless servant.

As shown in the picture above, it protected our cave ancestors from wild beasts. A fire at the cave entrance was worth more than a hundred men with sharp flints. Thanks to fire, man was able to rise from the age of flints and clubs to the bronze age, and on to the iron age, the age of steam and on to electricity.

Innumerable have been the usages of fire, the powerful friend that man alone possesses. None of the lower animals have ever been able to use it, even the most highly intelligent chimpanzees will watch the hunter's fire die out, enjoying its warmth, but will never add a stick of wood to it. That is fortunate for us. Had it been otherwise the world's forests would have been burned before we came.

With fire, men have built their civilizations, and with it they have burned their enemies, slowly, in religious quarrels. Fire makes it possible for a thousand families to live in one apartment, all heated from one central furnace.

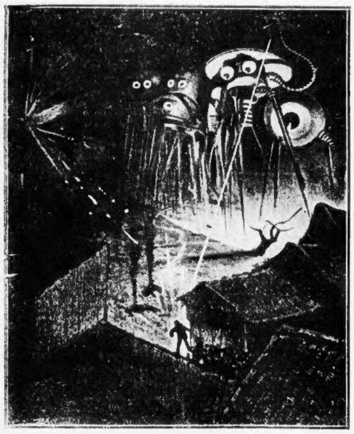
When there were no matches, no flint and steel, it was a dangerous thing to let the fire go out.

In the American Weekly, interesting magazine that you will receive with tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser, you will read the French scientist's, Prof. Thevenin, interesting analysis of primitive man and his first use of fire.

You will easily understand that men should have turned to "fire worship" in their gratitude for heat, and also that Eskimos living inside the Arctic circle should imagine hell to be a place tightly frozen as we imagine it to be brightly blazing.

The American Weekly which you will receive with the Boston Sunday Advertiser tomorrow concentrates especially on important scientific problems.



WHAT WILL STRANGE NEW RAYS MEAN TO FUTURE MEN?

The strange new rays that bombard our atmosphere, coming from the mysterious recesses of cosmic space, may be as important to modern man and his science as fire itself was to our ancestors of a million years ago.

In H. G. Wells' story, "The War of the Worlds," the Martians, living on a planet many millions of years older than ours, conquered this world with rays hurled from a distance. That "pure imagination" now enters the domain of reality, just as do the stories of Jules Verne.

Other rays, deadly in their power, will, it is believed, be used in the next war, for annihilating armies.

Men usually begin new inventions with the idea of killing each other. The first iron undoubtedly because it would stab and kill better than sharpened flint or bronze, now it is used for ploughs.

For evolution, you must know, continues in our clothes after it has apparently ceased in our bodies.

Listen, World! Clean Up

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Has This "Depression" Hit You?

THIS "DEPRESSION" they're all talking about—maybe it's hit you.

Out of a job? Busted? Don't know where you're going to turn next? And you wonder if I know how it feels. Lady—Lady—are you asking me that!!!

Elsie Robinson

I know. Take it from me, I know.

Hating to open your eyes, everything's so smeared with discouragement? Just as if there were a thick slime over the whole world—over yourself, too. Sick of yourself as you are of everything else. Sick of trying to keep going—dragging yourself around—what's the use?

That morning slump. No use to dress. No use even to wash, or to brush your hair. Watcha got to dress for? Who cares how your hair looks? Dirty kimono over a torn nightgown—ragged old slippers doing the same old flappety flop. Flappety—slap—that's how you feel.

Dirty kitchen. Yesterday's dishes—day before yesterday's dishes—piled in the sink. Well, what of it? Why wash dishes? Why do anything, except sit there, huddled over your coffee, chewing on a stale roll—looking at the paper with empty eyes. Another day. And what use is another day to you? You wish you were dead!

Know how it feels? I'll say I do. I'm tasting that stale roll yet. I'm hearing that flappety flop.

But take a tip from me, partner—don't do it. Don't quit on yourself like that!

Depression? Sure we have it. And you can't prevent it. Times like this are bound to hit us every now and then.

Suppose the market did go blooey—suppose they did sell short—you needn't sell yourself short.

You're just one big asset—always. Whether times are good or bad, you have just one asset you can bank on—one commodity you can trade with—that asset is yourself.

Wheat and cotton and coal and steel—they go up or down—it won't matter much, as long as you keep yourself at par. For sooner or later, you'll get your stride again. There's something in you that will actually create prosperity for you, if you'll keep it functioning.

But once let your value flop in your own eyes, and you're done for.

Go around wearing dirty kimonos, flappety shoes—let the dirty dishes pile in the sink and the bed lie unmade in a sour room—and life will treat you as you're treating yourself. A down-at-the-heel body means a down-at-the-heel soul. And a down-at-the-heel soul has the market value of garbage.

Suppose life has two-timed you? All the more reason for not two-timing yourself.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

This Is the Day to Be Silly and Gay

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—This is the day this column tries to be silly and gay. The week's work is ended, the town riveting stops at noon, the morning post—mail in Gallipolis—brings the pay check and life is otherwise pleasantly savored. On Saturday I usually garland my hair to skip and tra-la here and there.

Sometimes I stop and do a handstand on a water plug. I'm that happy. But not this Saturday. For one thing the Sealyham got into a box of old-fashioned taffy during the night and the house is all stuck-up and gooey. I'll likely have to be pried out of every chair I'm sitting in.

Yet every time I go out to scold the rascal, in disgrace under the kitchen table, he rolls over on his back, waves his paws tremulously on the air so friendly like, I lose heart. He "cutes" me with coyness. The only solution is to hire some brute to scotch him.

To hie away from it all for a little time—and while gone my wife discovered the erring pooch had wiped his charlesevanshughes on the parlor drapes—I dropped over to a nearby hotel to see a friend from out of town. I don't know why all hotel clerks hate me on sight, but they do.

The minute I walk up to the front desk they swell up with rage. I affect theater box office men the same way. Nobody is nicer or more self-effacing than I. Invariably I remove my hat, cough apologetically behind a hand and stand to one side and wait, nursing a parochial notion they will never see me.

But no matter how unoccupied they are when I appear, they immediately find a dozen things to do. Not once—save that time at Palm Beach—have I ever spoken to one first, and this digression was meekly to tell him a measuring worm was crawling up his collar. But today, after 30 minutes, I exploded.

Clapping my hands together sharply like that—one, two, three!—the monster in me springing to the fore, I cried: "See here! Is anyone going to pay attention to me around here or are they?" I get all balled up when excited that way and remember nothing until next day at noon. Often not until 4 o'clock.

One clerk detached himself, but catching a glimpse of his puss in passing a mirror, halted to give his tie a quick yank, then cooly surveying his meticulous nail ends inquired with a Voltaireian profundity: "Yee-e-e-e-s?" And before I could tell him he was yelling to some passerby: "Hello, Roy, how's every little trick?" That type. I flipped on my heel and stamped out. A nice way to treat a son of a hotel man who has patronized hotels since the good old days of roller towels.

* * *

And look. As though the day was not enough of a complete flop, I had to annex a drunk on my way home. He lurched out of a subway exit, steadied himself and leered at me.

"Nothing," he hiccuped, "sets a fella off like a nice pair of spats. What do you do for a living, buddy, besides putting icing on cakes?"

* * *

I bore up bravely, trying to look at ease, running the gauntlet of titterers, but it is only a question of time until I have to give up fripperies or keep off the public highways. Any day they may quit hooting and start shooting.

* * *

Then there was the ensuing incident of the pocket lighter. For many weeks it has been sparking but nothing happens and if you want to be a town boy your lighter must work. I stopped in at Dunhill's and told the "clark" my dilemma. "How do you expect it to light," he inquired, "with no wick?" I should have thanked him, but with the day's irks my hot blood steamed up and I bellowed: "Well, who put the wick in there in the first place?" Think that one over for absolute zero in zippy comebacks.

When I got home I told my wife I believed I was getting dotty. "Getting?" she replied, with an inquiring inflection, and so I locked all the doors to my work-shop and have been here pouting ever since. And when I pout, I pout. My lips stick out and everything.

* * *

Outside, a mean, chilling drizzle falls. The clouds overhead are as dark as my thoughts. The room is becoming suffocatingly hot. A lot of good I am in the world. I have a notion to open a window—and sit right smack in a draft.

Auto Insurance Racket

Companies Should Revise System

Mr. Frank A. Goodwin estimates that at least $2,000,000 a year in insurance rates is imposed upon our honest and careful autoists as the result of fake damage claims conspired by shyster lawyers, crooked doctors and dishonest claimants.

Mr. Goodwin has a way of saying things in the sensational, but subsequent investigations have usually proved him to have been accurate.

The State, instead of transacting this compulsory automobile liability insurance business itself, has farmed it out to private insurance corporations.

Well, if they are so efficient, let the insurance corporations reclaim this annual loss of $2,000,000 and devise methods to prevent its repetition.

The autoists are paying $20,000,000 a year in fees to the insurance corporations, before they can turn a wheel on the highways they built and paid for.

This business came to the insurance companies without much effort of their own. If they can receive the fees, at least they can bear the responsibility of their stewardship.

Fighting Wage Cuts

Shoe Workers Should Make Their Own Battle

Three unions of shoe workers at Haverhill vote unanimously against any liquidation of their wages at the present time, as proposed by the manufacturers. One of them, however, offers this alternative: That a wage revision might be acceptable if and when a downward revision is made of the incomes of city officials, firemen, policemen, landlords, grocers, public service employes and other occupationals.

It would seem that the shoe workers would do better to stand in their own boots and make their own fight. It is a poor time to be talking of wage reductions. And there are enough troubles in this unsettled world of ours without trying to shove our burdens onto others.

Their attitude is akin to that of the Philadelphia colonials who were refusing to fight off the attacking Indians because the Quakers, with their dislike of war, might be rescued from the common peril. Which caused Franklin to exclaim, "What! You would not pump the ship because the rats might be saved!"

No More Poison Alcohol

Fanatics Will Be Angry

Commissioner Doran announces that a new denaturant will be used, which will prevent the use of alcohol for beverage purposes, but which will not kill.

Uncle Sam in the role of poisoner—for that, in practice, is what it often amounted to—was a spectacle that the public opinion of the nation could no longer tolerate.

It was to be expected that a lame duck Congress should want to see Uncle Sam continue in that role, and should vote the taxpayers' money to keep him in it. But it would have been incredible that President Hoover, who, at all events, is a humanitarian, could much longer stand by passively and permit this criminal practice.

Probably the Anti-Saloon League will now demand the head of President Hoover on a charger. The demand will not impress the rest of the country, and should not depress Mr. Hoover.
